This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

THE COUNCIL OF BEDFORD COLLEGE cannot allow the CALENDAR of their College to appear without a few words of introduction and explanation.

It had long been the desire, not only of the Council, but of many students and friends of the College, that a Calendar carrying back the history of the College to its foundation should be published. The chief difficulty which has hitherto prevented the carrying out of this desire arose from the fact that the records of the early years of the College had been imperfectly kept, and consequently an editor unacquainted with the College would hardly be able to give an accurate and connected account of the gradual development which had occurred.

This difficulty has, however, fortunately been entirely removed, for a lady, who was a student, and now is an Associate and Member of the College, Miss Henrietta Busk, undertook, entirely as a voluntary work, the compilation of this Calendar. Miss Busk has herself been intimately connected with the College and taken much interest in its progress, and is a member of a family who not only aided the foundation of the College, but have ever since taken an active part in its development.

The Council believe that the information in the Calendar will prove to be of great interest both to past and present students and to other friends of the College.

The collection and arrangement of this information has been a laborious task, requiring great care and perseverance; it is, therefore, with much pleasure that the Council take this opportunity of tendering to Miss Busk their very sincere thanks, and of assuring her of their high appreciation of her work.

W. J. RUSSELL,
Chairman of Council.

Short History of the College.

BEDFORD COLLEGE was founded in the autumn of 1849, a very few months after a women's college had been opened in Harley Street, since called Queen's College.

Mrs. Reid, whom we all now know as the foundress of Bedford College, though at the time she shrank from any open recognition of the fact, had taken warm interest in the beginning of Queen's College, and helped it both with advice and money.

Her desire was that such colleges should be opened in many different parts of London, so that every girl living in London could have easy access to one of them.

Her scheme was to embody a thoroughly liberal education, including all the higher branches of study in various departments, so that such intellectual privileges should be open to every woman seeking for truth and knowledge.

It was with this intention that the College was founded on the broadest and freest principles possible. It offered education without religious test, but with the highest aims for moral and spiritual life. For one of the chief objects of the College from its foundation has been to raise the standard of character in its students at the same time that it gave the best possible culture to their minds.

Mrs. Reid and her friends were encouraged in their endeavour by the fact that a perfectly free college had not long before been established in London for young men. This was the college that at first was called London University, and afterwards its name was changed to University College, London.

It is only those who have studied the question of women's education in its now historical point of view, who can understand what it was for any one to come forward so long ago and assert the principles which are now accepted almost as axioms. Before 1850 it was considered ample education for a girl to be taught at home for a few years, and then at thirteen or fourteen to be sent to a finishing school for a couple of years. She returned to her father's house at about sixteen, finished, knowing nothing thoroughly, and with not even knowledge enough to make her desire more. She saw her brothers at that age, or older, pass out of their schools and begin a three-years' course at one of the universities, and from that time she ceased to be able to talk on the same subjects, or to sympathise with them when they turned their thoughts to any particular branch which they meant to study more specially. Of course, there were exceptions to this rule, and we hear of many girls whose mental cravings were not satisfied with this mode of education, and who by stealth, as it were, either taught themselves, or obtained leave to carry on their studies beyond the ordinary school routine.

If we bear all this in mind we shall be better able to estimate the far-sighted sympathy that prompted Mrs. Reid and her devoted friends to take the steps that they did to secure something better in the way of education for the rising generations. It is therefore mainly due to this band of workers that women's education has made the advance that it has, and we may congratulate ourselves that our attempt paved the way for the now successful women's colleges of Newnham and Girton, also the Somerville and Lady Margaret Halls. It was just twenty years after the establishment of Bedford College that Miss Emily Davies began a women's college, afterwards removed to Girton, which was to be on the same lines as men's colleges. She had previously served on the Council of Bedford College, so that she was thoroughly acquainted with the working of it. And in 1871, Miss A. J. Clough, also a member of our College, was appointed the head of Newnham College.

Mrs. Reid was the daughter of William Sturch, a well-known Liberal politician, a scientific and highly cultivated man. She married John Reid, M.D., who, however, only survived their marriage for six months. Being a large-hearted and intelligent woman, with leisure and means, she turned these to account in developing the idea of founding a college such as she hoped women were then ready to benefit by. Associated with Mrs. Reid were many ladies, who did much to assist her in her arduous labours. Most prominent amongst these may be mentioned Miss Bostock, who has worked incessantly for the welfare of the College from its foundation, ever assisting with her ready sympathy and helpful suggestions, and frequently with large and generous gifts and donations; Lady Romilly, who for the first few years was assiduous in attending the meetings and helping to smooth many difficulties; Lady Belcher, Mrs. (afterwards Lady) Crompton, Mrs. (afterwards Lady) Goldsmid, Mrs. Jameson, Mrs. Bryan Waller Procter, Lady Pollock, Miss Julia Smith, Mrs. Strutt (afterwards Lady Belper), Miss Anna Swanwick, and last, but not least, Mrs. Hensleigh Wedgwood, all gave their time and assistance ungrudgingly.

Miss Jane Martineau, one of the original Lady Visitors, was elected to the Council in 1852, and three years later was chosen Honorary Secretary, an office which she most ably filled for twenty-one years. By her steady work and business habits, she helped the College through the period when the struggle to raise the standard of education was the hardest, for at that time there were no high schools to prepare the pupils, and no public examinations to form an incentive to steady application.

In September 1849, No. 47 Bedford Square was taken, and regular classes were begun. Before that time, Mrs. Reid, in an informal way, had had courses of lectures delivered at her house in Grenville Street, Brunswick Square, and there had worked out the idea of the College. She generously placed in the hands of three trustees (Erasmus A. Darwin, Thomas Henry Farrer, and Hensleigh Wedgwood) the sum of 1,500*l.* to meet the initial expenses of the scheme.

The Board, or Committee of Management, at the outset consisted of the Lady Visitors, the three trustees of the original fund, and a few other gentlemen, viz. Rev. Baldwin Brown, R. Hull Terrell, and William Shaen, M.A. They all took an active share in the work at the beginning, and although after the first five years Mr. Shaen had not time to give to the working of the College, he always maintained his interest in its welfare. In 1868, he was re-elected on the Council, and remained on it until his death in 1887, being chosen Chairman in 1880, and was most assiduous in his attention to the duties of that office. The Board, which met every term, appointed the Council of Management annually, consisting of nine members and an honorary secretary. The Council had the power to elect professors and all officers of the College, and controlled all the financial affairs; but many of the details were left in the hands of the Lady Visitors, forty in number, who were so constantly in the College as to be well acquainted with all the difficulties that arose from time to time. The professors also met once or twice a term, and suggested to the Council any changes which they thought desirable for the improvement of the instruction and for sustaining the high standard of its classes. Amongst the professors who first lectured at the College are found such names as Augustus De Morgan, Francis William Newman, Rev. A. J. Scott, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, and W. Sterndale Bennett. Much assistance at the commencement was given by Rev. C. G. Nicolay and Rev. J. S. Brewer; but they were obliged to resign their positions almost at once, because the fact of their helping in a college on such a perfectly free foundation was then considered sufficient to jeopardise their tenure of professorships in other colleges.

From the lists of the pupils entering each session, it will be seen that, during the first few years, many ladies who were either married or not quite young took advantage of this mode of supplementing their earlier education. But, as younger pupils presented themselves, it was found that they were insufficiently trained to benefit by the professors' lectures, and it was felt that either the standard must be lowered or something must be done to remedy this difficulty. In 1853, therefore, a school was established in connection with the College, and, under the able tuition of Miss Frances Martin, and her colleague Miss Jane Benson, there were soon as many pupils as space would allow.

In 1856, to assist those who wished to receive a really systematic education, and not only to attend a class or two, 'a college course' was arranged which, if followed out for three or four years, would provide this. Many pupils availed themselves of this advantage, and the system is still found most useful, especially by those who do not intend to enter for any university or other public examination.

About this time it became evident to Mrs. Reid that she could never hope that the College would be in a condition to repay her original loan of 1,500*l.*; she, therefore, released her trustees, and made over the sum as a free gift.

In 1861, the next house in Bedford Square was taken, and the lower part of both houses used for college and school purposes, a room now being set apart as a library where the pupils could study. Some years previously Mrs. Reid had removed to York Terrace, Regent's Park, but kept her house in Grenville Street as a boarding-house for girls whose parents lived at a distance. When the second house was taken in 1861, these boarders removed to the top floors of the two houses in Bedford Square, where Miss Thomas for many years was Lady Superintendent.

Mrs. Reid's health soon after began to fail, and at last, on Good Friday 1866, she peacefully passed away, leaving the work she had had so much at heart to be carried on by others. In those years of failing health, she had often and often entreated her younger friends not to slacken in their interest and work for the higher education of women. It was not only her enthusiasm for the child of her brain that made her friends ready to take up the standard which she was obliged to let drop, but the sweet winning presence of the loving sympathising woman, that stirred all their best feelings, and awakened in them a desire to go and do likewise in the same unostentatious manner in which she had accomplished quietly such a far-reaching work. There are many women who could testify to the numbers of unrecorded benevolent acts that she performed, cheering, encouraging, and helping with money, those who would otherwise have been unable to benefit by the College education.

Owing to the knowledge that the parents of many girls were unable to afford them a higher education, Bedford

College announced, in December 1851, some scholarships, for which Mrs. Reid supplied the funds. These appear to have been the very first College scholarships offered to girls and were first awarded, in June 1852, to those students who had shown themselves most steady and persevering.

In 1858, Mrs. Reid invested 1,200*l.* to enable the College to grant two scholarships every year to candidates worthy of such assistance; one was to be awarded to the best scholar coming out of the school, and the other was given in the College. Very shortly afterwards the old pupils collected a sum of money, with which they bought an annuity, and founded a scholarship which was called the Old Pupils' Scholarship.

Besides these, the professors founded one in 1860; but after 1868 it fell into desuetude until 1883, when it was again awarded, but on rather different terms.

The College is indebted to Mrs. Neil Arnott for founding a scholarship in 1865, specially adapted for those who wish to prosecute their studies in science.

When the College moved from Bedford Square, Mr. Samuel Courtauld founded a scholarship; and later still, in 1885, Miss M. S. Clift bequeathed a sum of money for a Clift scholarship.

On Mrs. Reid's death in 1866, it was found that she had left a large portion of her property in the hands of three trustees, Miss Bostock, Miss Jane Martineau, and Miss E. E. Smith, 'for the promotion of female education.' In expending the income of this fund, the trustees have always aimed at raising the standard and efficiency of women's education, feeling that schools with junior pupils in tolerably large numbers are certain to be able to sustain themselves. As it became clear that many girls' schools were raising their standard of efficiency, it was thought advisable, in 1868, to close the school connected with the College, and let the scheme be confined to the original idea of 'a College for the Higher Education of Women.'

In 1868–69, the College was reorganised with this intention, and in the latter year it was incorporated, with a charter of its own, under the name of 'Bedford College.'

The objects of the Association thus established are:—

1. To continue, with an improved constitution, the College for women which has been carried on since the year 1849 in Bedford Square, London, and has been known since the year 1860 by the name of Bedford College.

2. To provide thereby a liberal education for women, such education not to extend beyond secular subjects.

The articles of association provide that the management of Bedford College shall consist of 'Members of the College,' about one hundred in number. The first members were the former Board, with some others added. The members of the College are to elect a 'Council of Management,' consisting of nine members of the College, and an Honorary Secretary; they also are to elect a President, who shall be called 'The Visitor.' The Council of Management conducts the general business of the College, appoints the Chairman, Honorary Secretary, professors, teachers, officers, and servants of the College. They from time to time provide for the inspection and examination of the students at the College by Examiners external and independent of the College. They administer the income, which is devoted entirely to the working expenses and the payment of the professors.

There is also a 'Committee of Education' appointed by the Council, consisting of members of the College, and some representatives of the teaching staff nominated by the professors. The Committee discuss all points connected directly with the classes, such as subjects, hours, and subdivisions, and also examine the testimonials of candidates for professorships, and recommend to the Council. Members of this Committee are present at the beginning of the session to receive new students, and confer with them, if desired, as to the classes they wish to join.

The Lady Visitors assist the Lady Resident in keeping order and discipline throughout the College, and are present at the classes, &c.

At the incorporation the first 'Visitor' appointed was Erasmus A. Darwin, who had been Chairman of the Council almost from the foundation of the College. On his resignation in 1879 the Rev. Mark Pattison, Rector of Lincoln College, Oxford, was elected Visitor, having been ten years Chairman of Council. On his death, in 1884, the College was glad to confer its highest distinction upon a lady who was not only a personal friend of Mrs. Reid's, but also so well known for her high literary attainments and wide culture as Miss Anna Swanwick.

At Michaelmas 1874 the leases of the two houses in Bedford Square expired, and it was thought desirable to find premises more exactly suitable to a college, and also more easily accessible from other parts of London. The leases of two houses in York Place, Baker Street, were purchased by the College and by the Managers of the Boarding House. For this object, and to make the necessary alterations in the houses, the sum of 8,000*l.* was required. Through the generosity of friends this was, before long, obtained—Miss Bostock heading the list with a donation of 1,000*l.*; Mr. Samuel Sharpe gave 600*l.*; the Duke of Bedford and Mr. Samuel Courtauld each 500*l.*; and Mrs. Reid's trustees 400*l.*, besides many other smaller sums.

When the houses had been acquired, much work was needed not only in the way of repairs but in radical alterations. On part of the back premises of the two houses was built a very well proportioned Central Hall of red brick, with three mullioned windows on either side, and two lofty arches, leading to the class-rooms at one end, and to the original houses at the other; beyond this hall (where the stables of the houses had stood) were erected two good-sized class-rooms, one large Lecture-room, and a fine Studio with a north light. On a lower level, and reached by spiral staircases from the end of the hall, were added two class-rooms, since used as laboratories, one chemical and one physical. Subsequently the room set apart for the Council was turned into a biological laboratory. The Science lectures are almost exclusively given in these three laboratories, and the three other lecture-rooms are constantly in use for Arts' classes, &c. The former drawing-rooms were left unaltered, except that Miss Bostock filled all the six windows with coloured glass, in memory of Mrs. Reid, and one is used as the College Library, the other as a Study. The books that had been given to the College had almost all belonged to Mrs. Reid, and were either given by her during her lifetime, or by her residuary legatee after her death. From time to time some others were added, either by purchase or donation.

A third drawing-room is set apart as the Music-room, and the whole of the upper storeys of the two houses are arranged as a residence for students. Some ladies are managers of this department, and engage the services of a Lady Superintendent, who makes the life as pleasant and homelike as possible. Miss Thomas was the Lady Superintendent for many years, and on her resignation she was succeeded by Miss Ashdown. Miss R. L. Notcutt has been the assistant for a long time; but the College students know her best as the librarian, and general referee in difficulties connected with classes, subjects, &c.

The removal of the College to its new surroundings formed an era in its existence, and from that time it has ever more and more been able to approach the ideal that its founders always had for it—i.e. that of being a real College, and not only a higher school. One event that helped in this direction was the foundation, in 1878, of the Girls' Public Day School Company, and the rapid growth of its schools. This kind of education gives the grounding needed before pupils can benefit by the lectures given by the professors. Other helps were the opening of the Cambridge and Oxford Local Examinations to girls, the establishment of examinations for women at the University of London, and, later still, the decision in 1878 of that body to admit women to its degrees.

At the same time that these changes were great advantages to the raising of the standard of the education required, they were great disadvantages to the College financially. For experience has shown, in the education of men as well as of women, that, while in the lower standards of instruction an institution may easily continue self-supporting at moderate fees, some endowment or fund is needed in order to place teaching in the higher branches of knowledge within the reach of a more limited number of students. It has therefore been of the greatest assistance to the College that Mrs. Reid's trustees expend some of the money at their disposal in supplementing the income of the College so that the professors may be rather more adequately remunerated than they could be out of its ordinary receipts. The trustees also grant several scholarships to be used in the College; these are awarded either at various schools, or in connection with some public examinations, such as the Senior Oxford and Cambridge Locals, Joint Board Examinations, the Matriculation and Intermediate Examinations at the University of London, &c.

The first Matriculation Examination at the University of London that was free to women was held in January 1879, and at the June examination of that year five students of the College and one former student entered, and all of them passed in the Honours Division.

As the candidates became qualified for the higher examinations, the question arose as to whether the College could afford to supply the more advanced teaching, as, at all events for a good many years, the number of students asking for such teaching would be small, and the variety of subjects to suit all requirements very great. In order to enable the College to engage the services of the best professors in all the various subjects then started, the Council determined to make an effort to collect a fund large enough to invest, so that the income should be expended on increasing the professors' salaries. But, owing to the fact that so many similar appeals were before the public at the same time, a fund was not raised sufficiently large for such a purpose, and the small sum obtained was used for the immediate needs of the College.

In 1885 the Council received a very welcome bequest of 300*l.* from the late Mrs. Richard Greaves, of Warwick.

Bedford College, true to its original principles, started classes as students presented themselves. Before long all the subjects required for the Intermediate Examinations, for the Preliminary Scientific, and for the full degrees of B.A. and B.Sc., were taught, with the exception of Physiology, and the subjects for Honours in the Degree Examinations will be taught when there is a sufficient demand for them. The comparatively small number of students matriculating from the College is accounted for by the fact that so many students only come to prepare for their degrees after having passed the Matriculation Examination.

In 1880 the Council determined to encourage a steady course of instruction by granting Diplomas of Associateship to such students as had regularly attended classes in the College course during three years, and attained a high standard in the subjects. This Diploma is intended to have a value of its own quite apart from any degree or examination, and is only given to the students who have passed through the course with honour.

Certificates of merit in special subjects are also granted on the recommendation of the professors.

One of the subjects always taught at the College was Drawing, at first undertaken by Francis S. Cary, who held the post of professor for twenty-one years. In 1884 it was felt that the very excellent Studio, which was furnished with a good selection of casts and models, was not used to the greatest advantage. An Art School, therefore, was started by the late Harry Johnson, R.I., and Edwin Long, R.A., consented to give his services as Art Visitor. Unfortunately only a few months afterwards Mr. Johnson died quite suddenly, before the new scheme had been fully established. He was succeeded by Norman Tayler, A.R.W.S., and then by Frederick Smallfield, A.R.W.S. The Art School gives a thorough training in Art, beginning with the most elementary forms, and taking the student through all the necessary grounding of drawing from the cast and antique, to water-colours and oils, and painting from the draped life model, &c.

The Library has received presents of books from time to time; but in 1884 it was found that very extensive additions were needed to make the supply of books, specially scientific ones, such as the students required. A small committee of old students therefore determined to collect a sum of money among those who had benefited by the College, and other friends, and to do this as a memorial of Mrs. Reid. With this fund a small terra-cotta plaque was placed in the Central Hall, bearing the following inscription: 'Bedford College was founded in Bedford Square, October 1849, by Elizabeth Jesser Reid, for the Higher Education of women. Her work is gratefully recorded by the Friends and Students of the College.' Five mahogany bookcases were fitted in the Library, and 320 volumes on various subjects were purchased. These were all the more expensive works of reference that students were not likely to be able to gain access to in any other way. They each bear an appropriate label. Some valuable botanical diagrams, with portfolio and stand, were also given to the College, and a small Musical Library was started for those students who are taking pianoforte lessons, and from which, under the teacher's superintendence, musical compositions may be borrowed.

Since this increase a Library committee has been appointed by the Council, consisting of former students and a representative of the present pupils. Their first duty was to rearrange the books according to subjects, to make them as easy of access as possible to the students. Besides this, the committee meets once a term to receive all books offered to the Library, to suggest to the Council books that are required, and to make all rules affecting the management of the Library and the loan of books.

In all probability the College premises will be enlarged by the addition of some new laboratories, which will be built in the rear of the present College class-rooms, as soon as the necessary funds are collected. It is intended that this new wing shall be built in memory, and bear the name, of William Shaen, not only on account of his long connection with, and devoted work for, this College, but also because during his whole life he always identified himself with every movement for the advancement of women's higher education. When this new wing is fitted up, the rooms in the College that have been temporarily devoted to laboratories will be able to be used again as class-rooms, &c.

The College staff of Professors and Teachers was never in a higher state of efficiency than at present, as may be seen from the very good positions that the students take in the University examinations; and if the number of students wishing for such benefits as the College offers goes on increasing, those who have its future welfare at heart need feel no anxiety for its continued prosperity.

It only remains to mention some institutions which have been formed within the College for the benefit of the students.

There is a Debating Society, founded in 1881, which meets regularly two or three times a term, and which joins in the Inter-Collegiate Debates that take place from time to time.

In 1886, a 'Bedford College Magazine' was started, in which, besides essays and papers on literary and other subjects, questions of interest to the students are discussed.

There is a Musical Society, which meets once a fortnight for vocal practice and once a fortnight for instrumental practice. The orchestra contains a good many lady violinists, and friends of the College, both ladies and gentlemen, are invited to join the society.

A Sketching Club is connected with the Art School. Once a term there is an evening meeting, when the members have an opportunity of sketching from a life model, and a portfolio of sketches is circulated amongst the members each term, which are criticised by an artist. Friends as well as students of the Art School and of the College may join this club.

The Lady Resident frequently has an evening reception, at which all the past and present students are welcome.

In June 1887, the students acted Euripides' play of 'Iphigenia in Tauris' in Greek. Part of the Central Hall was turned into a stage, with a proscenium for the chorus; a former student painted the scene with the front of the Greek temple, and Sir Charles Newton presented to the College a copy of a real Greek altar.

All these institutions show how the true spirit of collegiate life pervades the students, although the majority of them live at their own homes, thereby keeping alive their interests in home life and their domestic sympathies, while joining with those who have the same aims and ambitions in their educational life.

MEMORANDUM OF ASSOCIATION OF THE BEDFORD COLLEGE.

1. The name of the Association is 'THE BEDFORD COLLEGE.'

2. The registered office of the Association will be situate in England.

3. The objects for which the Association is established are :—

(1.) To continue, with an improved constitution, the College for Ladies, which has been carried on since the year 1849, in Bedford Square, in the county of Middlesex; and been known since the year 1860 by the name of Bedford College.

(2.) To provide thereby a liberal education for ladies, such education not to extend beyond secular subjects.

(3.) The doing all such other lawful things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects.

4. The income and property of the Association, whencesoever derived, shall be applied solely towards the promotion of the objects of the Association, as set forth in this Memorandum of Association, and no portion thereof shall be paid or transferred, directly or indirectly, by way of dividend, bonus, or otherwise, howsoever, by way of profit, to the persons who at any time are or have been members of the Association, or to any of them, or to any person claiming through any of them :

Provided that nothing herein shall prevent the payment, in good faith, of remuneration to any officer or servant of the Association, or to any member of the Association, or other person, in return for any services actually rendered to the Association.

5. The fourth paragraph of this Memorandum is a condition on which a licence is granted by the Board of Trade to the Association, in pursuance of Section 23 of the Companies Act, 1867. For the purpose of stopping any evasion of the terms of the said fourth paragraph, the Board of Trade may, from time to time, on the application of any member of the Association, impose further conditions, which shall be duly observed by the Association.

6. If the Association act in contravention of the fourth paragraph of this Memorandum, or of any such further conditions, the liability of every member of the Council of the Association, and also of every member who has received any such dividend, bonus, or other profit as aforesaid, shall be unlimited.

7. Every member of the Association undertakes to contribute to the assets of the Association, in the event of the same being wound up during the time that he is a member, or within one year afterwards, for payment of the debts and liabilities of the Association contracted before the time at which he ceases to be a member, and of the costs, charges, and expenses of winding up the same, and for the adjustment of the rights of the contributories amongst themselves, such amount as may be required, not exceeding five pounds, or, in case of his liability becoming unlimited, such other amount as may be required in pursuance of the last preceding paragraph of this Memorandum.

We, the several persons whose names and addresses are subscribed, are desirous of being formed into an Association, in pursuance of this Memorandum of Association.

Dated the day of 1869.

ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION OF THE BEDFORD COLLEGE.

I. The College.

1. For the purpose of registration, the number of the members of the College is declared not to exceed one hundred.

2. These Articles shall be construed with reference to the provisions of the Companies Act, 1862, and the Companies Act, 1867, and terms used in these Articles shall be taken as having the same respective meanings as they have when used in those Acts.

3. The College is established for the purposes expressed in the Memorandum of Association.

4. The members of the College shall be:—

(a) The persons whose names and addresses are set forth in the Schedule to these Articles.

(b) Persons appointed members in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

(c) The Visitor for the time being, hereinafter mentioned.

II. Government of the College.

5. The first General meeting of the College shall be held at such time, not being more than three months after the incorporation of the College, and at such place, as the Council of Management may determine.

6. Subsequent General meetings shall be held at least once in each of the three terms of the academical year, on such days as the Council of Management appoint.

7. The above-mentioned General meetings shall be called Ordinary meetings; all other General meetings shall be called Extraordinary meetings.

8. The Council of Management may, whenever they think fit, and shall, upon a requisition made in writing, and signed by any ten or more members, convene an extraordinary meeting.

9. Any requisition made by the members shall express the object of the meeting proposed to be called, and shall be left with the Secretary of the Association.

10. Upon the receipt of such requisition, the Council of Management shall forthwith proceed to convene a General meeting; and if they do not convene the same within fourteen days from the date of the requisition, the requisitionists may themselves convene a meeting.

11. A seven days' notice at the least of every General meeting, specifying the place, the day, the hour of meeting, and the business to be transacted at such meeting, shall be given to the members, in the manner hereinafter mentioned, or in such other manner, if any, as may be prescribed by the College in general meeting; but non-receipt of such notice by any member shall not invalidate the proceedings at any General meeting.

12. Ten members shall be a quorum, and, except in the case hereinafter mentioned, no business shall be transacted at any meeting unless a quorum is present at the commencement of such meeting.

13. If within one hour from the time appointed for the meeting, a quorum of members is not present, the meeting shall, if convened upon the requisition of the members, be dissolved; and in any other case, stand adjourned to some time and place to be then fixed by the members present; and if at such adjourned meeting a quorum of members is not present, the member or members present may proceed to the transaction of business.

14. The Visitor, if present, and in his absence the Chairman of the Council of Management, shall preside at every general meeting of the College.

15. If there is no Visitor, and no Chairman, or if neither the Visitor nor the Chairman is present at the time of holding any meeting, the members present shall choose one of their number to be Chairman of such meeting.

16. The Chairman may, with the consent of the meeting, adjourn any meeting from time to time and from place to place, but no business shall be transacted at any adjourned meeting other than the business left unfinished at the meeting from which the adjournment took place.

17. Every member shall have one vote, and no member shall, except the Chairman, have more than one vote.

18. The Chairman at any meeting shall have, as well as his own vote, a second or casting vote, in case the votes of the members present are equal.

19. Votes must in all cases be given personally, and not by proxy.

20. New members shall be appointed by the Visitor and by the College in general meeting assembled alternately, but so that at least one in every three persons appointed shall be a woman, and so that the whole number of members of the College shall not at any one time exceed one hundred.

21. Any member may at any time resign his membership and cease to be a member by sending his resignation in writing to the Secretary of the College, and the non-attendance of any member at four consecutive ordinary meetings of the College shall be considered a resignation, but a member resigning shall be re-eligible.

22. The Council shall have custody of the Common Seal of the College, and every contract to which the Common Seal is affixed shall be signed by two members of the Council and by the Secretary, at a meeting of the Council.

23. The College shall appoint the Visitor.

24. The College shall appoint a permanent Committee to transact the business of the College, under the name of the Council of Management.

25. The College shall receive the resignation of the Visitor, or of any members of the Council of Management, and shall appoint a new Visitor, or persons to fill up vacancies in the Council of Management.

III. THE VISITOR.

26. The Visitor shall hold office for five years, and shall, on the termination of his visitorship, be re-eligible.

27. The Visitor shall appoint new members alternately with the College, as hereinbefore provided.

28. The Visitor shall be Chairman at any meeting at which he is present, and shall exercise such other functions as may from time to time be assigned to him by the College.

IV. THE COUNCIL OF MANAGEMENT.

29. Until the Council of Management, hereinafter called the Council, are appointed, the subscribers of the Memorandum of Association of the College shall be deemed the Council.

30. The Council shall consist of nine members of the College, appointed by the College to be members of Council, of whom three at least shall be women, and of the Secretary of the College for the time being.

31. The two senior male members of the Council, and one senior female member, shall retire every year. During the two first years succeeding the appointment of the Council, the Council shall determine, by ballot or otherwise, who shall be deemed the senior members of the Council, for the purpose of determining the order of retirement. As between members appointed on the same day, the person or persons first in the order of appointment shall, for the purpose of determining the order of retirement, be held to be the senior member or members of the Council. The Secretary for the time being shall be a member of Council ex officio, and shall not retire so long as she continues Secretary.

32. All or any of the members of the Council, except the Secretary, shall retire, if requested to retire, by a resolution of the College passed at an ordinary meeting of the College: Provided always that no such resolution can be proposed at an ordinary meeting of the College, unless notice of such resolution shall have been given at the ordinary meeting next preceding the ordinary meeting at which such resolution is proposed.

33. On the retirement or resignation of any member or members of the Council, the College shall elect a person or persons to be member or members of the Council in the place of the person or persons so retiring or resigning, and the person or persons so retiring or resigning shall be re-eligible as member or members of Council.

34. The Council shall elect one of the members thereof to be Chairman of the Council, who shall preside at the meetings of the Council. In case of his absence from any meeting, the members of the Council present shall elect one of their number to preside at such meeting.

35. The Council shall conduct the general business of the College, subject to such general resolutions as may from time to time be passed by the College, and shall undertake the details of the expenditure of all moneys on account of the ordinary business of the College, and shall have power to make any Bye-laws which are not inconsistent with the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the College, and to fix the fees or other charges payable by Students of the College, and to do all such things as are necessary for the transaction of the business of the College.

36. The Council shall, at every ordinary meeting of the College, furnish to the College full reports of the proceedings of the Council, accounts of the expenditure of the College, and a report on the state of the College.

37. The Council shall appoint the secretary, professors, teachers, officers, or servants of the College, upon such terms and subject to such conditions as to the Council appear reasonable, and shall have power to remove the same: Provided always that the power of removal shall, in the case of professors, be subject to the provisions of Article No. 41.

38. The Council shall from time to time provide for the inspection and examination of the students at the College by examiners external to and independent of the College.

V. THE OFFICIALS.

39. The secretary and the professors, teachers, or other superior paid officers of the College, shall be appointed under the Common Seal of the College by the Council, on such terms and subject to such conditions as to the Council appear reasonable.

40. No person shall be ineligible to any office or place in or about the College by reason of such person holding any particular religious opinion. No professor, teacher, or other superior paid officer of the College shall be eligible as a member either of the College or of the Council.

41. All professors shall be removable by the Council: Provided, however, that any professor removed by the Council shall have a right to appeal to the College against such removal, in such manner as the Council shall by bye-law provide.

42. The Secretary shall be a woman, and shall be appointed for the term of three years. At the expiration of such term she may be re-appointed.

43. The professors of the College for the time being shall form a Board of Studies, which shall meet from time to time to receive communications from the Council, and to adopt and send to the Council any resolutions which the Board of Studies think fit to send.

VI. VISITORS OF CLASSES.

44. The Council shall have power to appoint such ladies as they think fit to act as visitors of classes.

45. The visitors of classes shall have power to make suggestions to the Council as to the conduct of classes, or otherwise, as they shall think fit.

VII. ACCOUNTS AND AUDIT.

46. The Council shall cause true accounts to be kept of the receipts and expenditure of the College.

47. Once at least in every year the accounts of the College shall be examined, and the correctness of the balance-sheet ascertained by one or more auditors appointed by the College at the last ordinary meeting in each year.

48. The auditor or auditors shall make a report upon the balance-sheet and accounts, and in such report shall state whether in his or their opinion the balance-sheet is a full and fair balance-sheet, properly drawn up, so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the affairs of the College, and in case he or they have called for explanation or information from the Council, whether such explanation or information has been given, and has been satisfactory, and such report shall be read, together with the report of the Council, at the last ordinary meeting of the College in every year.

VIII. Notices.

49. A notice may be served by the College upon any member, either personally or by sending it through the post by a prepaid letter, addressed to such member at his last-known place of abode in the United Kingdom, or at any place within the United Kingdom which he has given to the Secretary of the College as his address.

50. Any notice, if served by post, shall be deemed to have been served at the time when the letter containing the same would have been delivered in the ordinary course of post, and, in proving such service, it shall be sufficient to prove that the letter containing the notice was properly addressed and put into the post-office.

IX. Interpretation Clause.

51. In the construction of these Articles, the following words and expressions shall have the respective meanings hereinafter assigned to them, if such meanings are not inconsistent with the context or subject-matter:—

'The College' means 'the College incorporated by the Memorandum of Agreement':

'Member or members' means 'member or members of the College':

'Member of Council' means 'member of the Council of Management':

'Superior paid officer' means 'any paid officer not holding the position of a domestic servant.'

52. All words of the masculine gender shall be deemed, unless the interpretation is consistent with the context, to include females.

BYE-LAWS.

Members of the College.

1. An alphabetical Register shall be kept of the members of the College, with their addresses.

Election of the Council and Auditors.

2. The Register of members of the College shall be open to the inspection of members at the College.

3. Any member of the College who may wish to nominate any other member of the College for any office shall cause to be delivered at the office in the College, twenty clear days, at least, before the Annual General meeting, a written notice signed by him, and stating his address, and also the name and address of the person whom he wishes to nominate, and the office for which he wishes to nominate him.

4. The Council shall see that at least one fit and proper person is nominated for every office which is actually vacant, or which is to be vacated at the Annual General meeting.

5. Seven clear days, at least, before the Annual General meeting, the Council shall transmit to every member of the College, residing within the United Kingdom, at the address appearing on the Register, the following documents, that is to say:—

i. A list of the persons holding offices in the College which they are to vacate at such meeting.

ii. A list of the nominees for those offices respectively, their names being alphabetically arranged under as many heads as there are, or will be, descriptions of offices vacant, or to be vacant. Against the name of every nominee in this list, the name shall appear of the party nominating him, whether that party be the Council or a member of the College; and in case the Council shall have seconded any nomination made by a member of the College, the words 'the Council' shall be appended to the name of the nominating member.

iii. A list of the persons, if any, nominated by the Visitor to be members of the College; against the name of every person nominated to be a member of the College shall appear the name of the Visitor, or the names of the nominating members of the College, as the case may be.

6. If at any General meeting there shall be no more candidates duly nominated for any office than there shall be vacancies in such office, the persons duly nominated shall be declared elected. But if there shall be more such candidates for any office than vacancies in such office, the choice among them shall be by ballot, to be taken in such manner as the Chairman shall direct; and in the case of those new members of the College who are appointed by a General meeting, the election shall also be by ballot.

7. No unintentional error shall vitiate any election, after the Chairman shall have declared the result.

8. Whenever an Extraordinary General meeting shall be called for the purpose of supplying any vacancy, the mode of nominating for the vacant office or offices, of announcing the nominations, and of choosing persons to fill the vacant office or offices, shall be the same as is hereinbefore prescribed in the case where officers are to be chosen, at the Annual General meeting, so far as the Council may deem the regulations to that effect proper for the occasion.

GROUNDS OF REMOVAL FROM OFFICE.

9. Any member of the Council shall cease to hold his office on his ceasing to be a member of the College.

10. No member of the College shall at the same time hold the offices of member of Council and Auditor.

11. If any member of the Council or any Auditor shall be, directly or indirectly, concerned in any contract or transaction out of which he may derive profit or emolument from the funds of the College, the Council shall in any such case declare the office held by the party so concerned to be vacant, and he shall thereupon cease to hold any office whatever in the College.

12. No person, while member of the Council, shall be appointed either immediately or in reversion to any professorship or other place of emolument in the College.

General Meetings.

13. All members of the College attending a General meeting shall, on entering (if required), deliver their names and addresses in writing to one of the officers of the College.

14. At all General meetings (except in cases otherwise herein provided for) the mode of voting shall be by show of hands, and the Chairman shall, either on a view, or by counting the numbers, as he may think fit, determine the result, and shall declare the same to the meeting. If he consider the result doubtful, or if any member of the College demand a division—Ayes shall go to the right, and the Noes to the left of the chair, and he shall name two tellers, one from each side, who may require any person claiming to vote to state his name, residence, and qualification, and shall count and report to the Chairman the numbers. The Chairman shall then declare the result to the meeting.

15. Any General meeting may be adjourned. The business of an adjourned meeting shall commence where the business of the original meeting broke off, and shall then proceed in the order in which it would have proceeded at the original meeting, if that meeting had not been adjourned.

16. If at any General meeting any business be brought forward which shall not have been announced in the notice convening the meeting, and any resolution relating thereto be come to of the nature of a bye-law, or requiring some act to be done by the Council, or by some officer of the College, such resolution shall not be of any effect unless confirmed by the meeting, specially adjourned to another day for the purpose of further considering the decision first come to; unless a motion be made and carried that the meeting at its rising shall specially adjourn for the purpose aforesaid, the resolution come to shall be deemed to have dropped. If the motion for the special adjournment be made and carried, the Council shall, by special notice, convene the adjourned meeting to be held after an interval of not less than one week.

17. At the Annual General meeting the Chairman shall, immediately after having taken the chair, declare the election of any officers chosen without a ballot, and, in case a ballot be necessary, name the scrutineers. The report of the Council on the proceedings of the College during the year immediately preceding shall be read, as also the auditor's account for the preceding year. After such report and account shall have been read and considered, other business (if any) announced in the notice convening the meeting shall be proceeded with in the order of announcement, and, next, any business which shall not have been announced in such notice.

The ballot for the choice of officers shall commence as soon as the scrutineers have been named, and shall be continued for as long a time as the Chairman shall deem sufficient to afford to the members present at the meeting the opportunity of voting. During the ballot the meeting shall proceed with the other business which shall remain to be transacted. As soon after the closing of the ballot as the scrutineers shall be prepared to report, all other business whatsoever shall be suspended, whereupon they shall hand their report to the Chairman, who shall read the same, and shall declare to the meeting the result of the ballot. After such declaration, the meeting may again proceed with other business. At an Extraordinary General meeting, any election which may then have to be made shall be proceeded with as if the meeting were an Annual General meeting, and any other business on which the meeting shall have been convened shall be proceeded with in the order in which it shall have been announced in the notice convening the meeting.

18. If a requisition in writing, signed by five or more members, requiring an Extraordinary General meeting to be held, for the purpose of considering a matter stated specifically in the requisition, be presented to the Council or to the Secretary of the College, the Council shall appoint a time for holding the meeting, and shall convene the meeting by special notice.

The Council.

19. The meetings of the Council shall be at such times as the Council shall direct.

20. Four members shall be a quorum at meetings of the Council.

21. At all meetings of the Council in the absence of the Chairman the members present shall choose a Chairman.

22. In all questions the votes of the majority shall decide, except in cases otherwise expressly provided for. In case of an equality, the Chairman shall have a second or casting vote.

23. At the desire of any member who may be present at any meeting, the further consideration of any question of which previous notice shall not have been given in the circular convening the meeting shall be adjourned till the next day, to which the Council at its rising may adjourn. But no adjournment shall take place which would necessarily occasion the infraction of any bye-law or trust.

24. A committee, to be called the Committee of Education, shall be appointed for the following purposes :—

i. To arrange with the professors and teachers the number of classes in each subject, and the hours at which the instruction classes shall be held.

ii. To receive regular students, and advise them as to their subjects of study.

iii. To provide temporarily for any emergency that may occur in connection with the educational arrangements of the College in the interval between any two meetings of the Council.

iv. To make the arrangements for the examinations.

The members of the Committee of Education may arrange amongst themselves for the discharge of the duties committed to them, but the Committee shall keep a record of all their proceedings, and such record shall be laid before each meeting of the Council.

The Committee of Education shall hold office subject to any specific vote of the Council, until the first meeting of the Council in the Session, subsequent to the appointment of the Committee.

25. The times of opening and closing the Session in every year, the times of examinations, and the times and length of the vacations, the times of commencing the several courses of lectures, the length of the several courses, and the days and hours of giving them, shall be determined by the Council.

AUDITORS.

26. The business of the Auditors shall be to inspect, examine, and check all receipts, payments, and vouchers, and previous to the Annual General meeting in every year to examine and sign a statement of accounts, which shall exhibit a summary of the receipts and expenditure of the College, and of each special trust fund for the year ending the 30th day of June preceding, or such later day as the Council shall have fixed upon, and shall show also the amount on that day as well of each special trust fund, and the other property and assets of the College, as of all its existing debts, incumbrances, engagements, and liabilities. In such statements the Auditors may set forth any special matters respecting the finances of the College which they may think proper. The statement shall be reported and read to the Annual General meeting.

Receipts by the College.

27. Receipts in writing, signed by any two members of the Council, and countersigned by the Secretary, for any money payable to the College, shall effectually discharge the person paying the same.

28. The banking account of the College shall be kept in the name of Bedford College, at such bank as shall be, from time to time, determined by the Council. Instructions shall be given by the Council to the bankers of the College to honour such cheques as shall be signed by two members of the Council and countersigned by the Secretary.

29. All moneys received on account of the College shall be regularly paid into the College banking account, and no payments shall be made on account of the College except by cheque or from the proceeds of such cheques for petty cash disbursements as shall be, from time to time, ordered by the Council.

Property of the College.

30. Separate accounts shall be kept of all special trust funds held or received by the College.

Minutes of Proceedings.

31. All the proceedings of General meetings, and of meetings of the Council, and of Committees, shall be recorded in minute books to be kept for that purpose.

32. The number of members present on the taking of the chair, the names of the mover and seconder of any motion, if required by any member present, the way in which every motion is disposed of, by withdrawing, affirming, or negativing it, and in case of a division, the numbers who voted for and against a motion, shall be entered in the minute books. In the Council the names of the members present, and in case of a division, on the requisition of any member present, the names of the members voting for and against a motion shall also be recorded.

33. Any member of the College shall be entitled, on making a written application to the Secretary, to examine the minute books and to make extracts therefrom.

PROFESSORS, LECTURERS, AND OTHER TEACHERS.

34. The appointment of any professor, lecturer, or teacher may be for a limited period.

35. No professorship, lectureship, or teachership in the College shall be charged with the payment of the annual or other allowance to any retired or retiring professor, lecturer, or teacher.

36. If any person holding any professorship, or other office of emolument in the College, be proved, to the satisfaction of the Council, to have paid, or agree to pay, to any person who shall have retired or shall propose to retire from any professorship or other office of emolument in the College, any sum of money by way of compensation to such person for his having so retired, or so proposing to retire, every such person shall forfeit the professorship, or other office of emolument in the College, whereof he shall be the holder.

37. If in any subject no class shall be formed for a period of three terms, the appointment of the professor or teacher shall be held to lapse at the end of the third term.

38. The Council may remove any professor, lecturer, or teacher from his office; but such removal shall be subject to the following provisions:—

i. The Council shall, before removing any such professor, lecturer, or teacher from his office, give him notice in writing specifying the grounds for his removal, and afford him the opportunity of being heard thereon. The Council, immediately upon removing any professor, lecturer, or teacher shall give him a copy of the resolution removing him. All the duties and rights of such removed professor, lecturer, or teacher shall cease from the date of the resolution of the Council removing him.

ii. The professor, lecturer, or teacher so removed may, at any time within three weeks after receiving such copy from the Council as aforesaid, give the Council notice in writing that he desires to appeal to the College against such removal, and that he demands that a meeting of the College be convened to consider the subject of such removal.

iii. The Council shall, as soon as conveniently may be after the receipt of any such notice, convene a meeting of the College for such purpose as aforesaid.

iv. Unless the College, at the meeting so convened, passes a vote that such professor, lecturer, or teacher be restored to his office, the effect of the resolution of the Council removing him shall not in any way be affected by any such appeal.

v. If any professor, lecturer, or teacher, who is removed as aforesaid, do not within three weeks after receiving such notice of his removal give notice of his wish to appeal to the College, or if after giving such notice he do not appeal to the College, such professor, lecturer, or teacher shall have no further power of appealing against it.

39. No professor may, without the consent of the Council, and upon terms to be settled by them, appoint an assistant to himself.

PRESERVATION OF ORDER.

40. The Lady Resident shall, with the assistance of the Lady Visitors, maintain good order and discipline, and shall be responsible to the Council for the maintenance of such order and discipline.

By Order,

JANE MARTINEAU,
Secretary.

College Arrangements.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE ADMISSION OF STUDENTS TO THE COLLEGE CLASSES AND ABOUT THE GENERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

STUDENTS are not admitted to the classes under the age of sixteen, unless they satisfy the professors by examination in each subject that they are able to profit by their lectures.

The Instruction is carried on by means of lectures given by the professors, which require careful attention at the time, and also preparation and reading to be done by the students, either at their own homes, or in the Library and Study attached to the College.

There are teachers for Preparatory classes for those who, though of the required age, are not sufficiently advanced to join the lectures.

All students must give satisfactory references on entering.

The Session consists of thirty weeks, and is divided into three terms, as nearly as possible of ten weeks each, with four weeks' vacation at Christmas and three weeks at Easter. The session begins in the middle of the second week in October, and ends the last week in June. The College examinations, for students who are not working for any public examination, follow, and occupy about a week.

1. A student may attend only one class if she likes, or may join any number of classes, on any subject or subjects that she may select.

2. If more regular instruction is required, the 'College Course,' for which a composition fee of 10*l.* 10*s.* a term can be paid, is an excellent guide.

This College Course includes seven classes, provided that three of the seven are: (1) Latin or Greek; (2) Arithmetic or Mathematics; and (3) Drawing, Vocal Music, or a second-class in one of the subjects already chosen.

3. For those students who wish to prepare for the University of London Examinations, special arrangements are made, and the subjects required for the Matriculation held in June, and for the Degree Examinations, form part of the subjects for some of the classes.

Other pupils joining these classes will find that by no means exclusive attention is paid to the special books prescribed by the University Examiners, but a good general knowledge of the subject is imparted.

(a) A student preparing for the Matriculation Examination can take seven classes in the required subjects for a composition fee of 10*l.* 10*s.* each term.

N.B.—If Physics is one of the subjects chosen, it must be remembered that this is really two classes, as there is a Physics lecture twice a week, as well as Physics exercise and two hours' practice.

(b) A student preparing for the Intermediate in Arts Examination can take classes in all the subjects required, including two Greek classes, for a composition fee of 14*l.* 14*s.* a term.

N.B.—Three classes meeting for one hour a week count as two classes meeting for two hours a week.

(c) It is better that the preparation for the Intermediate in Science Examination should extend over two years, but if, for sufficient reasons, a student is obliged to take all the work in one session, she can attend the necessary classes on payment of a composition fee of 16*l.* 16*s.* a term.

N.B.—Three classes meeting for one hour a week count as two classes meeting for two hours a week.

None of these three composition fees include Laboratory fees.

(d) The classes for the B.A. and B.Sc. must be paid for as separate classes.

To help students entering the College, members of the Education Committee are present at the beginning of each session, to give advice to such students as may desire it in the selection of their classes; and the Librarian can be referred to at any time if any change is required or assistance needed.

In the Library, the students have free access to the books of reference, &c., and it is open from 10 A.M. to 6 P.M. during term time; there is also a Study that can be used during college class hours, from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M., where no talking is allowed. The Central Hall is a meeting-place between the classes.

Lessons in Singing and in Pianoforte and Violin Playing can be taken by Students of the College who attend two or more classes.

Luncheons and dinners are provided in the middle of the day at the College for any of the students. Tickets must be obtained beforehand in the Central Hall, and notice given before 10.30 A.M. on the day on which the luncheon or dinner is required; unless a regular notice is given for certain days in the week at the commencement of the term.

RESIDENCE.

Twenty-two students can be received in Bedford College Residence. There are separate rooms furnished as study and bedroom, and also bedrooms alone—divisions of a large room. The fees for residence (exclusive of college fees) are from 63*l.* to 70*l.* a year. Further particulars can be obtained from Miss Ashdown, the Lady Superintendent.

LABORATORIES.

There are Laboratories for the use of those students who join the practical classes in Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. Every student using one of the Laboratories must pay the fee of 10*s.* 6*d.*, and for this all materials required are supplied; but a student must provide her own chemical apparatus, which is inexpensive, and can be obtained on the premises on application to the Lady Resident.

The Laboratories are also open for the use of others than the students of the College, subject to the following rules:—

1. Before admission to any of the Laboratories, a student must show that she has already attended a course of practical work under some competent teacher, and obtain from the professor in whose laboratory she wishes to work a written sanction for her admission.

2. Each student and her work shall be subject to the supervision of the professor of the subject at which she may be working.

3. Each student shall be held responsible for the specimens and apparatus used by her, and shall return them to their proper places after using them. If any apparatus be broken by the student she must immediately inform the Lady Resident of the fact. She will be required to pay the whole cost of the damage.

4. No student going up for any examination shall enter herself as of Bedford College without the sanction of the professor.

5. Each student will be expected to provide or pay for the biological specimens and special chemicals required by her. The fees for the use of each of the Laboratories to non-students are 2*l.* 2*s.* for one term, or 5*l.* 5*s.* for the session; and for the Chemical Laboratory 5*s.* extra is charged per term for ordinary reagents.

The hours at which the Laboratories are open can be ascertained from the Lady Resident.

FEES PER TERM.

Each class of two hours a week	2	2	0
Each class of one hour a week	1	11	6
Each class for the half term	1	1	0
Fee for each Laboratory	0	10	6
Student's Composition Fee for seven classes	10	10	0
Matriculation Composition Fee	10	10	0
Intermediate in Arts Composition Fee	14	14	0
Intermediate in Science Composition Fee	16	16	0
Private Singing Lessons	4	15	0
Pianoforte Lessons	3	3	0
Single Lessons on the Pianoforte	0	8	6
Each Lesson on the Violin	0	8	0

All fees must be paid in advance at the beginning of each term. Cheques to be made payable to the Lady Resident, and crossed 'Union Bank of London.'

BEDFORD COLLEGE LIBRARY.

The Library is open for the use of the students from 10 A.M. until 6 P.M. The bookcases are unlocked during these hours, and the students can go to the shelves for whatever books they wish to refer to. Each book has a label inside marked with the description of the bookcase, shelf letter, and number on that shelf, so that it can easily be put back into exactly the same place.

The books are arranged according to the subjects of the classes, so that books referring to the same branches are kept close together.

It is chiefly the aim to acquire books of reference and larger works than the students would be likely to be able to have access to otherwise, and also the more voluminous dictionaries with references and quotations.

There is no special fund for maintaining the Library, so that gifts of books or donations of money are very welcome, and the Council from time to time sanction the purchase of works.

The Librarian is Miss R. L. Notcutt, who resides at the College during term time.

The following are the rules for the students who use the Library :—

I. Students shall have free access to the books while the Library is open during term time.

II. No book must be taken out of the Library without its being specially entered in the register-book kept for the purpose, and the entry must be cancelled when the book is returned to its place.

III. No book must be taken out of the College building without special leave from the Librarian, and a notification of how long it is likely to be kept.

IV. Before the Library closes each day the students must return all books used by them to their proper places on the bookshelves, as indicated by the labels inside, unless special leave has been obtained from the Librarian.

V. Dictionaries and books of reference must immediately after use be returned to their proper places.

VI. If any book is missing, notice will be posted in the Library and in the Central Hall, and the book must be returned to the Librarian.

VII. A list of the subjects contained in each bookcase is hung up in the Library for easy reference, and the exact place of each book is marked in the Large Catalogue, which can always be referred to.

With the sanction of the Librarian some books may be taken out and kept during the vacations, but this privilege cannot be granted to a very great number of students.

Bedford College Art School.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

The Session consists of about thirty-eight weeks, and is divided into three terms, beginning the first Thursday in October, with about a fortnight's vacation at Christmas and Easter. Students will be expected to give satisfactory references. The Professor directs the course of instruction to be followed by each student, and superintends all the teaching.

The Studio is open every weekday from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M., and the assistant teacher is always present. The subjects taught are as follows :—

1. Drawing in outline from the Round.

2. Drawing and painting in monochrome from Casts of Foliage, Fruit, Figure Details, and the Antique.

3. Drawing in Water Colours, and the Principles of Sketching from Nature.

4. Painting Still Life in Oils and Water Colours.

5. Painting in Oils and Water Colours from the Draped Living Model.

A student may attend the whole of each day that the Studio is open, or the whole of three alternate days, either Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, or Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, according to proficiency and the professor's arrangement.

If shorter hours are desired, a student may attend six Half-days a week, or three alternate Half-days.

A student may enter for the whole term, or at the half-term, or for any six consecutive weeks during any term.

Special arrangements are made for students attending three or more classes in the College who wish to add Drawing to their other subjects.

There is an Elementary Class, conducted by Miss M. A. Heath, for Drawing from simple objects and casts, and also for Elementary Drawing in water-colours, which meets on Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

Fees per Term.

Six days a week	8	8	0
Three days a week	5	5	0
Six half-days a week	6	6	0
Three half-days a week . . .	3	3	0
Elementary Class	2	2	0
Students of the College . . .	3	3	0

Half fees at the half term or for any six weeks.

All the fees must be paid in advance at the beginning of each term. Cheques to be made payable to the Lady Resident, and crossed 'Union Bank of London.'

Arrangement of Subjects of Lectures.

THE Subjects taught in the various classes are tabulated in this section to show the kind of work and the standard required in each.

Any further information, as to special books recommended, &c., may be obtained of the Lady Resident.

N.B.—All the classes meet twice a week unless otherwise mentioned. The first class is the lowest in each case.

ARITHMETIC.

Teacher—Miss EDITH HARVEY, Associate of Bedford College.

First Class.—Vulgar and Decimal Fractions; Elementary Properties of Numbers.

Second Class.—Recurring Decimals; Proportion; Roots; Properties of Numbers as far as and including Fermat's Theorem.

ART SCHOOL.

Art Visitor—EDWIN LONG, R.A.
Professor—FREDERICK SMALLFIELD, A.R.W.S.
Assistant—Miss M. A. HEATH.

An Elementary Class for Drawing from simple objects and casts, and also for elementary water-colours, meets twice a week—viz. Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

Drawing from the Round, from Models of Fruit and Foliage, &c., and from the Antique, on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday.

Painting from the Draped Living Model on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Principles of Drawing in Sepia and Water-colours, and Painting from Still Life, are also taught.

The Studio is open from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. daily.

BIOLOGY (ANIMAL).

Professor—W. BLAXLAND BENHAM, D.Sc. Lond.

Morphology and Physiology (including Histology and Development) of the chief classes of the Animal Kingdom; with a detailed study of the following Types—the Rabbit, the Fowl, the Frog, Astacus, Lumbricus, Helix, Vorticella, Amœba.

BIOLOGY (VEGETABLE) AND BOTANY.

Professor—A. W. BENNETT, M.A., B.Sc., F.L.S.
Demonstrator—Miss C. A. RAISIN, B.Sc. Lond.

First Class.—The Elements of Vegetable Morphology and Physiology. The Structure and Life-History of the Types required for the Preliminary Scientific (M.B.) and Intermediate in Science Examinations.

This class will be entirely practical.

Second Class.—Vegetable Histology and Physiology more advanced than the First Class. The Structure and Development of the Groups of Phanerogams and Cryptogams required for the Subject (V.) in the B.Sc. Examination.

This class will be partly practical and partly by Lectures.

CHEMISTRY.

Professor—P. S. U. PICKERING, M.A., F.C.S.

First Class.—General Course of Inorganic Chemistry, and the subjects set for the Matriculation Examination.

Second Class.—General Course of Inorganic Chemistry, and the subjects set for the Intermediate in Science and Preliminary Scientific Examination.

Third Class.—Organic Chemistry for B.Sc. Examination.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE, WITH ANGLO-SAXON.

Professor—JOHN W. HALES, M.A.

English Language.

History of the English Language, Grammatical, Structure, Etymology, &c.

English Literature.

First Class.—History of English Literature embracing the periods specially prescribed for the Intermediate in Arts Examination.

Second Class.—History of English Literature embracing the periods specially prescribed for the B.A. Examination. This class meets once a week.

Third Class.—Anglo-Saxon. This class meets once a week.

FRENCH.

Professor—J. A. ESCLANGON.

First Class.—Grammar, Translations, and Exercises, preparatory for the Matriculation Examination.

Second Class.—Syntax, Composition, Translation.

Third Class.—The books read are those prescribed for the B.A. and M.A. Examinations.

GEOGRAPHY (PHYSICAL) AND GEOLOGY.

Professor—GRENVILLE A. J. COLE, F.G.S.

A General Course treating of the Existing Features and Past History of the Earth, special attention being given to the Origin of the Scenery of particular Districts.

The subjects for the B.Sc. Examination (VIII.) are included, and facilities are offered for the Microscopic Study of Rocks and Minerals.

GERMAN.

Professor—A. WEISS.

First Class.—Grammar with Exercises. Easy Translation, preparatory for the Matriculation Examination.

Second Class.—Prose Composition. A general outline of German Literature.

Third Class.—German Conversation. This class meets once a week.

GREEK.

Professor—J. SAUMAREZ MANN, M.A.

First Class.—Elementary Books, Abbot's 'Primer of Greek Grammar,' Morice's 'Stories in Attic Greek,' and the special subjects prescribed for the Matriculation Examination.

Second Class.—The subjects prescribed for the Intermediate in Arts Examination.

Third Class.—The subjects prescribed for the B.A. Examination.

HARMONY.

Professor—WALTER PARRATT, Organist of St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor.

HISTORY.

Professor—H. W. NEVINSON, B.A.

English History.

First Class.—The period prescribed for the Matriculation Examination.

Second Class.—The period prescribed for the Intermediate in Arts Examination. This class meets once a week.

Greek History.

The period prescribed for the B.A. Examination. This class meets once a week.

Roman History.

The period prescribed for the B.A. Examination. This class meets once a weeek.

ITALIAN.

Professor—

LATIN.

Professor—E. S. Beesly, M.A.
Assistant—Miss R. L. Notcutt.

First Class.—'Public School Primer,' 'Bradley's Latin Exercises.'

Second Class.—The same books, and Cornelius Nepos.

Third Class.—Arnold's 'Bradley's Latin Prose Composition.' The books prescribed for the Matriculation Examination.

Fourth Class.—Arnold's 'Bradley's Latin Prose Composition.' The books prescribed for the Intermediate in Arts Examination.

Fifth Class.—Arnold's 'Bradley's Latin Prose Composition.' The books prescribed for the B.A. Examination.

MATHEMATICS.

Professor—Percy J. Harding, M.A.
Assistant—Miss A. E. Lee, B.Sc., B.A. Lond.,
Associate of Bedford College.

First Class.—Elementary Algebra and Geometry for beginners.

Second Class.—Subjects for the Matriculation Examination.

Third Class.—Subjects for the Intermediate in Arts and in Science Examinations.

Division A.—Elements of Determinants, Trigonometry, Logarithms, Annuities, &c. Co-ordinate Geometry of the Straight Line and Circle. Elements of Solid Geometry.

Division B.—Algebra for those who can solve easy Quadratic Equations, Geometry, Proportion and Similarity, including the subjects of Euclid, Book VI.

Fourth Class.—Subjects for the B.A. and B.Sc. Examinations.

Fifth Class.—Subjects for the B.Sc. Examination.

Sixth Class.—Higher Conics, or subjects suited to those who are acquainted with Differential and Integral Calculus.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

Professor—F. A. MASON, Newnham College, Cambridge.

Michaelmas Term . . .	Logic.
Lent Term	Psychology.
Easter Term	Ethics.

PHYSICS.

Professor—F. WOMACK, B.Sc., M.B. Lond.
Assistant—Miss A. E. LEE, B.Sc., B.A. Lond., Associate of Bedford College.

First Class.—This course is elementary and suitable for beginners; it will be chiefly practical, and will deal with the most important Phenomena of Light, Heat, and Electricity.

Second Class.—Mechanics, Hydrostatics, and the Elements of Light and Heat and Electricity. The subjects prescribed for the Matriculation Examination.

Students will be allowed to perform the simpler qualitative experiments in the branches of the subject they have attended.

Third Class.—General Course, including the subjects prescribed for the Intermediate in Science Examination.

Students will be allowed to perform quantitative experiments in all branches of Physics.

Fourth Class.—Applied Mathematics. This class meets once a week in Michaelmas and Lent Terms, and twice a week in Easter Term. In Michaelmas and Lent Term Elementary methods only are employed, i.e. up to the standard of the Intermediate in Science Examination; but in Easter Term higher methods are used, especially with reference to the Dynamics and Astronomy of the B.Sc. Examination.

Fifth Class.—The subjects for the B.Sc. Examination treated theoretically and practically.

Practical Class.—Open to all students of Physics.

Light and Colour.—In Easter Term there is a course of Experimental Lectures on Light and Colour, with especial reference to the requirements of Art Students.

Light. Its sources, and transmission through space in straight lines. Camera obscura. Formation of shadows, and their relation to the form and position of object causing them.

Reflection of Light and the laws governing it. Formation of image by reflection from smooth and rough surfaces, e.g. in smooth and ruffled water. Reflection from, and formation of, image by curved surfaces. Real and virtual images.

Refraction, and the distortion it produces. Total reflection. Lenses and the images they form. The eye, formation of image on the retina. Estimation of distance and size. The geometry of perspective, double vision, stereoscopic vision, sense of solidity. Use of spectacles for long, short, and astigmatic sight.

Decomposition of Light, into constituent colours. The spectrum of sunlight. The rainbow, how formed; its position and the order of colours in the two bows.

Colour of transparent and opaque bodies, compound colours, complementary colours, colour blindness. Colours produced otherwise, e.g. in feathers, mother-of-pearl, soap bubbles, &c. Colour of the sky.

POLITICAL ECONOMY.

Professor—J. SAUMAREZ MANN, M.A.

Michaelmas and Lent Terms.—Outline of Political Economy, with Historical Illustrations. Text-book: Mrs. Fawcett's 'Political Economy for Beginners.' Students are also recommended to read Marshall's 'Economics of Industry' and Walker's 'Brief Political Economy.'

Easter Term.—History of Political Economy.

Name and Nature of the Science. Logical Method. Definitions of Wealth. Origin and Use of Money. The Mercantile System.

Requisites of Production. Land: Historical evidence as to the origin and development of private property in land. Labour and consumption, productive and unproductive. Division of labour: historical progress. Co-operation, simple and complex. Capital: fixed and circulating. Historical evidence as to early forms of capital, and early history of trades. Fallacy that 'Luxury is good for trade.'

Private Property, Communism and Socialism. Religious and political schemes of Communism. Ancient Greek anticipations: monastic orders. Shakers. The earlier schemes in this century: St. Simon, Fourier, Owen, Cabet. Modern German Socialism: the theories of Marx and Lassalle. The 'Social Democratic Federation.'

Distribution. Theory of Rent. How far realised. Forms of land tenure. Causes affecting wages. Malthus' Theory of Population. Notes on the history of the population question. Theory of the Wage-Fund. How far tenable. Profits. Interest. The Industrial Revolution of this century. Trade Organisations: Guilds: Trades-Unions. Strikes, and means of settling trade disputes. Profit-sharing and various forms of Co-operation.

Value and Price. Money. Qualities requisite. Elements of Value. Causes affecting price of various classes of commodities. 'Value of Money.' Proposals for a Permanent 'Measure of Value.'

Credit and Production. Forms of Credit. Bills of Exchange. Convertible and Inconvertible Paper Currency. Banking.

Foreign Trade. Theory of International Values. Protection. Fair Trade and Reciprocity.

Taxation. Adam Smith's canons. Incidence of Taxation. The Poor Law and its history.

Different Economic Theories. Ancient Greek Theories. Some Ecclesiastical views. The 'Mercantile System.' The 'Economistes.' The English 'abstract' or 'individualist' Theory. The so-called 'National System.' American Protectionist Theories. Modern reaction against the 'abstract' or 'individualist' School. Logical Method of Political Economy.

This class meets once a week.

VOCAL MUSIC.

Professor—Walter Parratt, Organist of St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor.

CLASSES FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF LONDON EXAMINATIONS.

MATRICULATION.

The following classes are those that are specially adapted for students preparing for the Matriculation Examination held each year in June. Any seven of the classes can be taken for a composition fee of ten guineas, or by a student holding a Scholarship, and any of the classes can be taken separately.

Chemistry: First class.
English History: First class.
English Language.
French.
German.
Greek: First class.
Latin: Third class.
Mathematics: Second class.
Physics: Second class.
Physics, Practice: Second class.

INTERMEDIATE IN ARTS EXAMINATION.

The following classes are those that are specially adapted for students preparing for the Intermediate in Arts Examination. All those necessary for the preparation can be taken for the composition fee of fourteen guineas, or any of them can be taken separately.

English History: Second class.
English Literature: First class.
French.
German.
Greek: Second class.
Latin: Fourth class.
Mathematics: Third and Fourth classes.
Roman History.[1]

[1] This class meets one hour in the week.

Intermediate in Science and Preliminary Scientific Examinations.

The following classes are those specially adapted for students preparing for the Intermediate and Preliminary Scientific Examinations, and all those necessary for preparation can be taken for the composition fee of sixteen guineas, or any of the classes may be taken separately.

Animal Biology.
Botany.
Chemistry: Second class.
Chemistry: Practical.
Physics: Third class.
Physics, Practice: Third class.
Mathematics, Applied.

B.A. and B.Sc. Examinations.

Classes for these can be taken separately, according to choice, but the following are the classes specially adapted to prepare for these examinations:—

B.A.

English Literature: Second class.
French.
German.
Greek: Third class.
Greek History.[1]
Latin: Fifth class.
Mathematics: Fourth and Fifth classes.
Mental and Moral Science.
Roman History.[1]

[1] These classes meet one hour in the week.

B.Sc.

Astronomy and Dynamics.
Botany.
Chemistry: Third class.
Chemistry, Practical.
Geography (Physical) and Geology.
Mathematics: Fifth and Sixth classes.
Mental and Moral Science.
Physics: Fourth class.
Physics, Practice: Fourth class.

None of the above composition fees include Laboratory fees. For the use of any of the three Laboratories a fee of 10*s.* 6*d.* is charged to the students of the College. For rules about the Laboratories, both for students of the College and others only wishing for the practical work, and for the fees for those not otherwise students of the College, see page 59.

College Honours.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

ARNOTT SCHOLARSHIP.

This Scholarship was founded in 1865 by the late Mrs. Arnott, in memory of her husband, Dr. Neil Arnott.

She gave a sum of money to the College to be invested in Trustees' names to found Scholarships, and also to provide apparatus for the Physics classes.

When first founded, two Scholarships were offered each alternate year, but only admitted to two or three classes. In 1868 the plan was changed, and a full Studentship was granted each year to two students; but in 1881 the fund was handed over to the Council of the College, and it was then found necessary to grant only one full Studentship each year, tenable for one session.

In 1888 the Council decided to award one full Studentship, value 44*l.* 2*s.* per annum, every alternate year, tenable for two years, and the scholar is to make Science her chief study. Classes in Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, and at least one other Science, must be taken.

The examination takes place on the fourth Monday and Tuesday in June. The candidates must not be more than nineteen years of age on the first day of the Examination, and must not be already students of the College. They must send in their names to the Lady Resident not later than June 15. The examination is in Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, and Natural Philosophy.

Arithmetic. The elementary rules. Fractions.

Algebra. Equations of the first degree, with one or more unknown quantities. Quadratic equations with one unknown.

Geometry. The subjects of Euclid, Books I. to IV. Any satisfactory text-book may be used in preparation. The questions are not confined to Euclid's Propositions.

Natural Philosophy. Questions are set in Elementary Mechanics and Hydrostatics, involving only simple methods of solution, as, for example, treated in Lodge's 'Elementary Mechanics,' Magnus's 'Mechanics,' Wormell's 'Hydrostatics, or Arnott's 'Elements of Physics.'

For examination papers see pages 173 and 175.

The Scholarship admits to seven classes, beginning the October following the examination, and is tenable for two years; but no student will be permitted to hold the Scholarship the second year unless the Council are satisfied with the professors' report of her work during the session.

The scholars have been :—

1866. Angus, Amelia.
Willock, Sophia.
1867. Lord, Frances.
Willock, Laura.
1868. Willock, Laura.
1869. Shannon, Emily.
1870. Shannon, Alice.
Angus, Alice.
Atkinson, Elinor E.
1871. Green, Susannah.
Petheram, Eleanor.
Benham, Mabel E.
1872. Angus, Gertrude Edith.
Andrews, Kate.
1873. Marshall, Mary E.
Harvey, Edith C.
1874. Gardiner, Margaret.
Harrison, Edith.
1875. Cluer, Gertrude A. J.
Berry, Maude.

1876. Evans, Jane.
1877. Mitchell, Alice.
Perry, Agnes.
1878. Sonnenschein, Mary.
Vinter, Mary Elizabeth.
1879. Higginson, Elizabeth Dora.
Webb, Mary Isabella.
1880. Webb, Rebecca Langford.
Dawe, Annie.
Brown, Fanny.
1881. Harnden, Florence Ellen.
1882. Adamson, Mary Madeline.
1884. Semmens, Elizabeth Sidney.
1885. Vickers, Marianne.
1886. Hunt, Sarah Ann.
1887. Nash, Annie Mary Elizabeth.

CLIFT SCHOLARSHIP.

The Clift Scholarship was founded in 1885 with a legacy left by Miss Matilda Steward Clift, who for many years was one of the Lady Visitors of the College.

This Scholarship, value 44*l.* 2*s.*, is awarded every alternate year to a scholar wishing to make Science her chief study, and admits to seven classes for one session. Classes in Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, and at least one other Science, must be taken.

The examination takes place on the fourth Monday and Tuesday in June. The candidates must not be more than nineteen years of age on the first day of the examination, and must not be already students of the College. They must send in their names to the Lady Resident not later than June 15. The examination will be in Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, and Natural Philosophy, as for the Arnott Scholarship (see p. 77), and for the examination papers see pp. 173 and 175.

The Scholarship admits to seven classes for the session beginning the October following the examination.

The scholars have been:

1886. Marshall, Dorothy Blanche Louisa.
1887. Knight, Edith.[1]

[1] Although gained in June 1887, this scholarship (on account of illness) is deferred for a year, and is to be used in the session 1888–9.

COURTAULD SCHOLARSHIP.

This Scholarship was founded in 1877 by the late Samuel Courtauld, Esq. It admitted at first to three classes for one session, and was offered every year; but in 1888 the Council decided to award a full Studentship, value 44*l.* 2*s.*, every alternate year. This Scholarship is intended for the students in Arts.

The examination takes place on the fourth Monday and Tuesday in June. The candidates must not be more than nineteen years of age on the first day of the examination, and must not be already students of the College. They must send in their names to the Lady Resident not later than June 15.

The examination is in English Language and Literature, Latin and Mathematics; for papers see pp. 171, 172, and 173.

The Scholarship admits to seven classes for the session beginning the October following the examination.

The scholars have been:

1877. Evans, Alice Mary.
1878. Not awarded.
1879. Lee, Alice Elizabeth.
1880. Lee, Alice Elizabeth.
1881. Not awarded.
1882. Salmon, Ellen Maude.
1883. Leonard, Ellen Marianne.
1884. Not awarded.
1885. Ewart, Mary Frances.
1886. Not awarded.
1887. Rivett, Lily.

OLD PUPILS' SCHOLARSHIP.

This Scholarship was founded in 1861 by a subscription collected amongst the pupils of the College from 1849 to that date. An annuity was bought with the fund, so that the Scholarship will terminate with the expiration of the annuity.

On the foundation of the Scholarship, a special examination was held in Latin, Arithmetic, History, and one modern language. It was open only to students of the College.

From the incorporation of the College until 1885, the Scholarship was in abeyance; but for two or three years after that it was awarded to the woman who passed highest in the Intermediate Examination in Science in the University of London. In 1888, the Council decided to award it to the Bedford College student who stands highest in the June Matriculation List of the University of London, provided that she intends to study Natural Science.

This Scholarship, value 44*l.* 2*s.*, admits to seven classes in the session following the June Matriculation Examination, is tenable for one session, and is awarded every year.

The scholars have been:

1861. Whitehead, Madeline.
1863. Busk, Henrietta.
1865. Notcutt, Elizabeth.
1868. Nimmo, Margaret.

1885. Semmens, Elizabeth Sidney.
1886. Swatman, Harriet Philippa.
1887. Hurst, Emmeline.

PROFESSORS' SCHOLARSHIP.

In 1860, the Professors of the College founded this Scholarship. It was awarded on the results of the class examinations at the end of the session, which were at that time regularly held, and all the students attended them.

Any student was eligible who had been in the College at least two terms and not more than four terms.

When other examinations than the College ones began to be opened to women, this Scholarship fell into abeyance, as the best scholars could not always attend the College examinations; but in 1883 the professors expressed their desire to renew their Scholarship, and it is now awarded every alternate year as an entrance Scholarship for students in Arts, on the result of an examination in English Language and Literature, Latin and Mathematics, held the fourth Monday and Tuesday in June each year; for papers see pp. 171, 172, and 173. The candidates must not be more than nineteen years of age on the first day of the examination, and they must send in their names to the Lady Resident not later than June 15.

The Scholarship, value 44*l.* 2*s.* per annum, admits to seven classes, beginning the October following the examination, and is tenable for two years; but no student will be permitted to hold the Scholarship the second year unless the Council are satisfied with the professors' report of her work during the session.

The scholars have been:

1860. Smith, Isabella.
1862. Brock, Meta.
1864. Sanders, Catherine.
1866. Wrenalds, Agnes.
1868. Miss Annie Cutler } equal.
Miss Blanche Maples }
1883. (January, for two terms.) Dawes, M. C.
1883. Farrer, Ellen Margaret.

SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN BY MRS. REID.

In 1852 Mrs. Reid offered in Bedford College some Scholarships to assist women to procure higher education for themselves. This grant of Scholarships may be looked on as the very first given to women to prosecute their studies in a college. It forms, therefore, an era in women's education which can hardly be realised by those who are accustomed to the many benefits and helps to higher education that women now enjoy.

In 1858 Mrs. Reid presented a sum to found Scholarships on a permanent basis in the College. The interest of this money was granted in two Scholarships: one given in the College, on the result of the class examinations in special subjects, to a student who had been not less than one year in the College, and yet had not been two entire years; the other Scholarship was awarded to the best scholar in the school who should pass into the College.

After the school was given up, two Scholarships were granted annually for one year to students of the College who passed one of the examinations of the University of London, or the class examinations of Bedford College. Consideration was taken of the work of the candidate during the preceding session, and these Scholarships were specially intended for those who required assistance in prosecuting their higher education.

In 1888 the Council determined to grant one full Studentship, value 44*l.* 2*s.* per annum, every year, tenable for two years to students not already in the College. These Scholarships are adapted for students in Arts; and the examination in English Language and Literature, Latin and Mathematics, is held the fourth Monday and Tuesday in June each year. Candidates must not be more than nineteen years of age on the first day of the examination, and must send in their names to the Lady Resident not later than June 15. For examination papers see pages 171, 172, and 173.

The Scholarship admits to seven classes, beginning the October following the examination, and is tenable for two years; but no student will be permitted to hold the Scholarship the second year unless the Council are satisfied with the professors' report of her work during the session.

The scholars have been:

1852. Davy, Mary.

ST. DUNSTAN'S SENIOR EXHIBITIONS.

Besides the foregoing Scholarships, the Governors of the St. Dunstan's-in-the-East Charities offer for competition three Senior Exhibitions a year to girls who are not more than nineteen years of age on the first day of the examination, and whose parents are resident in the metropolis, as defined in the Elementary Education Act, 1870.

These Exhibitions of 100*l.* a year are tenable for not more than three years at any place of higher literary, scientific, or technical education approved by the Governors, and are for the purpose of enabling the holders to fit themselves for the practice of teaching, or the medical or any other profession.

The exhibitioners must, in the opinion of the Governors, be in need of assistance for the above purpose.

The examination will be in two parts:

Part I., in which every candidate must satisfy the examiners, consists of Elementary Latin, Elementary Mathematics, Euclid, Books I. and II., and Algebra, up to and including Simple Equations; and English Literature, including an essay on some subject chosen from English History.

Part II.—No candidates will be allowed to take more than four of the more advanced subjects, viz.:

I. Advanced Latin.

II. Greek, or French and German; or credit will be given for either French or German if taken singly.

III. Algebra, as in Part I., with the addition of Quadratic Equations, Permutations and Combinations, Arithmetical and Geometrical Series, Variation, Ratio and Proportion, Scales of Notation, and Binomial Theorem.

IV. Geometry: Euclid, Books I. to IV., VI., and XI., Propositions 1 to 21.

V. Trigonometry, up to and including the solution of Triangles. The elementary parts of Conic Sections treated geometrically and analytically.

VI. Chemistry.

VII. Physics, i.e. (a) Heat.
(b) Light.
(c) Electricity and Magnetism.

N.B.—Every candidate in this section must take (a) Heat.

The Exhibitions will be awarded either for aggregate merit or for special proficiency in either Languages or Mathematics or Natural Science. The candidates recommended for the Exhibitions will be required to make a definite statement to the Governors as to the course of study which they desire to pursue.

The examination takes place in the first week in June, and forms of entry (which must be sent in by the end of April) and all other information can be obtained from Miss G. Kensington, 122 Gloucester Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

SPECIAL PRIZES.

In October 1864, prizes were given by Mrs. Reid for 'An Analysis of Professor Cairnes' work on the Slave Power.'

ASSOCIATES.

In 1880 the Council determined to grant diplomas of Associateship to those of the students who had distinguished themselves both in the College Course and in the examinations held at the College, or some public examination. Any student applying for the diploma of Associateship must have attended classes regularly for three years and must have reached a tolerably high standard, as the diploma is granted as a real mark of merit. It is sometimes granted to those who have matriculated before entering the College, after only two years' course of study.

Those who have received the diploma are :

1880. Laura Gulliver.
Alice Elizabeth Lee, B.Sc., B.A.
Sophia Elise Marshall, B.Sc.

1882. Catherine Eyre Anelay, B.A.
Clara Brown, B.A.
Henrietta Busk, student from 1861–1865.
Alice Mitchell.
Mary Ellen Rickett, B.A.
Annie Townsend, B.A.

1883. Kate Alden, B.A.
Mary Collin, B.A.
Edith Harvey, student from 1873–1875.
Alice Shannon, student from 1870–1872.
Elizabeth Henrietta Sturge, student from 1874–1876, B.A.
Edith Maude Thomson, B.A.

1884. Harriet Hewett Brown, B.A.

Lucy Elizabeth Worsfold, B.A.

Names of Students,

UNDER THE YEARS WHEN THEY ENTERED THE COLLEGE.

THE following Lists have been arranged from various books preserved at the College which could give the required information. In the earliest years only the surnames were entered in the various receipt and class-books, and it has often been found impossible to trace the Christian names. They have, however, been added whenever there was any clue given, and since 1871 a regular Register has been kept, which greatly facilitated the work.

The lists are incomplete from Lent Term 1863 to Easter Term 1871 inclusive, owing to the loss of one of the books in removal to York Place in 1874.

If any names omitted can be supplied or corrections made in the following lists, the Editor will be very much obliged for any communications sent direct to her—

Miss H. BUSK, 1 Gordon Square, London, W.C.

She would also be very glad to receive the present names and addresses of such of the students who have married.

College Societies.

BEDFORD COLLEGE DEBATING SOCIETY.

This Society was established in 1881, and holds meetings about three times in each term. The following are its Rules:—

1. That this Society be called the Bedford College Debating Society.

2. Any present or past student of the College may become a member of this Society on being proposed and seconded by two members.

3. The officers of this Society shall consist of a President, a Vice-President, and a Secretary, who shall be elected by ballot at the beginning of each session.

4. Not more than three debating meetings shall be held in each term.

5. The date of any meeting, and the subject for discussion, with the name of the opener, shall be posted on the notice-board at least a week previous to the meeting.

6. All remarks shall be addressed to the Chair; and during the debate the authority of the Chair shall be absolute on all points of order and on the interpretation of the rules.

7. No strictly theological subject shall be proposed for debate.

8. Any member shall have the privilege of introducing a friend to a debating meeting, except when the debate is on College questions. Visitors shall be allowed to take part in the debate, but not to vote.

9. Each member of the Society shall pay a subscription of 1*s*. per session. The office of Treasurer shall be filled by the Secretary of this Society.

10. The debating meetings shall be held either at 4 p.m. or at 7.30 p.m. No meeting shall last longer than one hour and a half.

11. At each meeting the minutes of the previous meeting shall be read and confirmed.

12. The President shall have the power of calling on members by number to continue the debate, if necessary.

13. These rules shall be printed, and a copy of them shall be obtainable by each member on application to the Secretary.

The Debating Society is one of the Members of the Inter-Collegiate Debating Society, and the Rules are:—

1. This Society shall be called 'The London Inter-Collegiate Debating Society.'

2. The Debating Society of any London college or hospital may be invited to join this Society.

3. The Secretary and one representative of each Society shall constitute a permanent Committee; and the Secretary for the time being of the Society which provides the opener of the last debate shall be Secretary of this Committee.

4. The Secretary shall call the Committee together not later than the first week in November.

5. The debates shall be held as far as possible in alphabetical order, and the college where the debate is held shall provide the opener. The replier shall be provided by the college where the debate was last held.

6. One debate shall be held in each year, and it shall take place in the second term.

7. The Society which provides the opener shall pay the necessary printing expenses, and make all necessary arrangements for the conduct of the debate.

The following have been the officers of the Bedford College Debating Society:—

Oct. 1884. Alice E. Lee, B.Sc., B.A.

BEDFORD COLLEGE MAGAZINE.

In the autumn of 1886, some of the students of the College agreed that it was desirable to have a Magazine in which they could make their opinions known, and which should also serve as a link between the various members of the College and those who still keep an interest in the place of their former studies.

The Magazine is edited by 'Pallas Athene,' and one number appears each term, containing College news, Papers on all sorts of subjects, and Correspondence. Besides, a subject is given each term on which students and their friends are invited to write Essays. The History Professor, H. W. Nevinson, B.A., judges the Papers, and the best is printed in the next number of the Magazine.

Copies of it, and all information about the Essay, can be obtained from the Secretary of the Magazine Committee, at the College.

THE BEDFORD COLLEGE MUSICAL SOCIETY.

This Society was founded for the practice and performance of Vocal and Instrumental Music under a professional conductor. The members are past and present students of the College, and other ladies and gentlemen who are invited by the Committee.

All members pay an annual subscription to meet the expenses of the Society; some of the members are performers, and some are not. No one can become, or continue, a performer, without the approval of the President.

The Society is managed by a Committee, consisting of a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Conductor, the Lady Resident and Hon. Sec. of the College, and six other members, two of whom are former and two are present students of the College.

The meetings of the Society are held at the College on Tuesdays from October to May each year; those for vocal practice are held once a fortnight at 8 o'clock in the evening, and those for instrumental practice are held at 4.30 in the afternoon on the other alternate Tuesdays.

OFFICERS, 1887–88.

President and Conductor—Walter Parratt, Organist at St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor.

Vice-President—Miss Ashdown.

Accompanist—Miss Hinton.

Secretary and Treasurer—Miss Notcutt.

THE BEDFORD COLLEGE SKETCHING CLUB.

This Club consists of past and present students of the Art School and the College. Other friends may be proposed by two members of the Club. All names are submitted to the Committee for election.

The annual subscription is 5*s*., due January 1. Members elected after October will not be required to pay for the current year.

The Club is managed by a Committee, consisting of the President, Treasurer, Secretary, and ten other members, amongst whom are two former and two present students of the College, the Lady Resident and the Hon. Sec. of the College.

In each term there is at least one social evening meeting of the members, when an opportunity is afforded of sketching from the life model, &c. Beside this, a Portfolio of Sketches is circulated amongst the members once a term, to which each member is required to contribute one Sketch not exceeding 12 × 9 inches. A written criticism by an artist is circulated with the Portfolio, and each member may keep it three days, and then forward it by post, paying the postage.

The Sketches are sent to the Secretary of the Club at the College before February 1, May 1, and November 1. If a member does not contribute to the Portfolio, a fine of 1*s*. is imposed, unless the member, on joining, has announced to the Secretary her intention of not contributing, and 3*d*. for each day that the Portfolio is detained beyond the three days allowed.

OFFICERS, 1888.

President—F. Smallfield, A.R.W.S.

Secretary—Miss M. E. Webb.

Treasurer—Miss Notcutt.

University of London Arrangements.

PARTICULARS ABOUT THE EXAMINATIONS.

Matriculation Examinations are held in January and June of each year. They begin the second Monday in January, and the third Monday in June.

A certificate of birth must be sent in to the registrar one calendar month before those dates, showing that the candidate has completed her sixteenth year, and also a certificate of good conduct from the Lady Resident.

The fee for the examination is 2*l.*, but if for any reason the candidate is prevented from presenting herself for examination, or fails to pass that time, the fee is not returned, but 1*l.* extra is charged when she does present herself for examination.

The subjects in which the candidate must satisfy the examiners are :—

1. Latin.

2. Any one of the following: (a) Greek, (b) French, (c) German, and (d) either Sanskrit or Arabic.

3. English Language, English History, and Modern Geography.

4. Mathematics.

5. Mechanics.

6. One of the following sciences—Chemistry; Heat and Light; Magnetism and Electricity.

The successful candidates are placed in an Honours

Division according to merit, or in a First or Second Division in alphabetical order.

Further particulars and the subjects for each examination must be seen in the University Calendar kept at the College.

The Intermediate in Arts Examination takes place in July, and begins on the third Monday. No candidate may present herself for this examination, unless one academical year has elapsed since she passed the Matriculation Examination, or she have been placed in the Honours Division.

A certificate of good conduct from the Lady Resident must be sent in to the registrar one month before the examination.

The fee is 5*l.*, but if for any reason the candidate is prevented from presenting herself for examination, or fails to pass, the fee is not returned, but 2*l.* 10*s.* extra is charged for the examination to which she does present herself.

The subjects in which the candidate must satisfy the examiners are:—

1. Latin and Roman History.
2. Greek.
3. Either French or German.
4. English Language, Literature, and History.
5. Mathematics.

Honours can be taken in Latin, English, Mathematics, French or German; but the candidate must announce her intention of trying for Honours at the time that she enters for the examination, as different papers are set for the Honours or for the Pass only, and the examinations are held simultaneously.

The Bachelor of Arts Examination takes place in October, and begins on the fourth Monday. No candidate may present herself for this examination unless one academical year has elapsed since she passed the Intermediate Examination in Arts.

A certificate of good conduct from the Lady Resident must be sent in to the registrar one calendar month before the examination.

The fee is 5*l.*, but if for any reason the candidate is prevented from presenting herself for examination, or fails to pass, the fee is not returned, but 2*l.* 10*s.* extra is charged for the examination to which she does present herself.

The subjects in which the candidate must satisfy the examiners are:—

1. Latin, with Roman History (two papers).

2. Greek, with Grecian History (two papers).

3. One of the following languages—English, French, German, Italian, Arabic, Sanskrit (two papers in each).

4. Pure Mathematics, Mixed Mathematics, or Mental and Moral Science (two papers).

Honours can be taken in all these subjects, and the examination for Honours takes place a fortnight after the termination of the Pass examination.

The Master of Arts Examination takes place in June, and begins on the first Monday. No candidate may present herself for this examination unless one academical year has elapsed since she passed the B.A. Examination.

A candidate must give notice to the registrar fourteen days before the commencement of the examination, and must show evidence that she has completed her twentieth year.

The fee is 10*l.*, but if for any reason the candidate is prevented from presenting herself, or fails to pass, the fee is not returned, but 5*l.* extra is charged for the examination to which she does present herself.

There are four branches, any one of which may be taken:

I. Classics.

II. Mathematics and Natural Philosophy.

III. Mental and Moral Science, Political Philosophy, History of Philosophy and Political Economy.

IV. Any two of the following: English, French, German, Italian, Hebrew, Sanskrit, and Arabic.

The Preliminary Scientific Examinations are held in January and July, and begin on the third Monday in each of those months. No candidate may present herself for this examination unless she have matriculated at the University.

A candidate must give fourteen days' notice to the registrar.

The fee is 5*l.*, but if for any reason the candidate be prevented from presenting herself for examination, or fails to pass, the fee is not returned, but 2*l.* 10*s.* extra is charged for the examination to which she does present herself.

The subjects in which the candidate must satisfy the Examiners are:—

1. Inorganic Chemistry.
2. Experimental Physics.
3. General Biology.

The examination in January is only a Pass examination, but in July the candidate must announce her intention of trying for Honours at the time that she enters for the examination, as different papers are set for the Honours and for the Pass only, and the examinations are held simultaneously.

Candidates who pass this examination, and who pass at the same time in Pure Mathematics of the Intermediate Examination in Science, or who have passed the Intermediate Examination in Arts, are admissible for the B.Sc. Examination.

The Intermediate in Science Examination takes place in July, and begins on the third Monday. No candidate may present herself for this examination unless one academical year have elapsed since she passed the Matriculation Examination, or she have been placed in the Honours Division.

A certificate of good conduct from the Lady Resident must be sent in to the registrar one month before the examination.

The fee is 5*l.*, but if for any reason the candidate is prevented from presenting herself for examination, or fails to pass, the fee is not returned, but 2*l.* 10*s.* extra is charged for the examination to which she does present herself.

The subjects in which the candidate must satisfy the examiners are :—

1. Inorganic Chemistry.
2. Experimental Physics.
3. Pure and Mixed Mathematics.
4. General Biology.

Honours can be taken in Mathematics, Experimental Physics, Chemistry, Botany, and Zoology; but the candidate must announce her intention of trying for Honours at the time that she enters for the examination, as different papers are set for the Honours and the Pass only, and the examinations are held simultaneously.

The Bachelor of Science Examination takes place in October, and begins on the third Monday. No candidate may present herself for this examination unless one academical year has elapsed since she passed the Intermediate Examination in Science.

A certificate of good conduct from the Lady Resident must be sent in to the registrar one calendar month before the examination.

The fee is 5*l.*, but if for any reason the candidate is prevented from presenting herself for examination, or fails to pass, the fee is not returned, but 2*l.* 10*s.* extra is charged for the examination to which she does present herself.

There are nine subjects, and a candidate must satisfy the examiners in any three of them.

I. Pure Mathematics.
II. Applied Mathematics.
III. Experimental Physics.
IV. Chemistry.
V. Botany.
VI. Zoology.
VII. Animal Physiology.
VIII. Physical Geography and Geology.
IX. Mental and Moral Science.

Honours can be taken in all these subjects, and the examination for Honours takes place a fortnight after the termination of the Pass examination.

Examination Papers.

SCHOLARSHIP EXAMINATION PAPERS.

The following is the kind of paper that is set for the Scholarships in Arts—viz. Courtauld, Professors', and Reid's Students' Scholarships:—

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

June 1887.

Examiner—PROFESSOR HALES.

Time allowed—two hours.

1. What letters are called Mutes, and what Sibilants? How is gh pronounced in English?

2. When and under what circumstances did the English Language come into this island?

3. What can you say as to the influence of Latin on our language?

4. Explain the term inflection. How do English nouns form their plural? Of what other ways of forming it are there traces?

5. Describe our two Conjugations. Which is the older? To which belong these verbs: lie, lay, leave, let, lead, lose, loose, fight, think, drink?

6. Mention any English writers before Spenser. Do you know any of their works?

7. Make an outline of the Merchant of Venice, or of Macbeth.

8. Show how Milton's L'Allegro and Il Penseroso contrast with each other.

9. What do you know of the following persons: Dr. Primrose—Volumnia — Mr. Greatheart — Œnone — Edie Ochiltree—Sir Roger de Coverley—Sam Weller—Prospero —Enoch Arden—Evelyn Hope?

The following is the kind of paper that is set for the Scholarships in Arts—viz. Courtauld, Professors', and Reid's Students' Scholarships:—

LATIN.

June 1887.

Examiner—E. S. BEESLY, M.A. Oxon.

Time allowed—two hours. Dictionaries may be used.

TRANSLATE INTO ENGLISH.

1. Magistratibus opus est, sine quorum prudentia ac diligentia esse civitas non potest.

2. Socrates omnium eruditorum testimonio totiusque judicio Græciæ philosophorum omnium fuit princeps.

3. Nemo nostrum idem est in senectute qui fuit juvenis.

4. Quum sint in nobis consilium ratio prudentia necesse est Deum hæc ipsa habere majora.

5. Nunquam est utile peccare quia semper est turpe; et quia semper est honestum virum bonum esse semper est utile.

6. Nulla dies adeo est australibus humida nimbis
Non intermissis ut fluat imber aquis.
Nec sterilis locus ullus ita est ut non sit in illo
Mista fere duris utilis herba rubis.
Nil adeo Fortuna gravis miserabile fecit
Ut minuant nulla gaudia parte malum.

TRANSLATE INTO LATIN.

1. Desire and avarice render men blind.
2. He says that the town will be taken.
3. Cæsar having crossed the river marched to Rome.
4. Those whom we love we also wish to be happy.
5. If you had been there you would have thought otherwise.
6. If he has anything he gives it.
7. He says that if he has anything he gives it.
8. He cried out that he was ready to shed his blood for his country.
9. We must all die.
10. Every individual was at liberty to choose how far he would contribute towards carrying on any military enterprise.

The following is the kind of paper set for all the entrance Scholarships—viz. Arnott, Clift, Courtauld, Professors', and Reid's Students' Scholarships:—

MATHEMATICS.

June 1887.

Examiner—PERCY J. HARDING, M.A.

Time allowed—three hours.

Candidates for the Arnott Scholarship to take Questions 1–9. Candidates for the Courtauld or Professors' Scholarship may substitute the Questions marked A, B, C, for any of the preceding except the first two.

1. Explain clearly what is meant by the Multiplication and the Division of one fraction by another. Deduce the usual rules.

2. Find the square roots of $7{\cdot}00\dot{7}$ and $\cdot 0700\dot{7}$ each to five decimal places.

3. Arrange the expression $2x^3 - 3x^2 + 4x - 5$ in powers of $x - 1$; i.e. express it in the form

$$a(x-1)^3 + b(x-1)^2 + c(2-1) + d.$$

4. Simplify $\dfrac{1}{x + \dfrac{1}{x^2 + \dfrac{1}{x^3}}} \div \dfrac{1}{x^3 + \dfrac{1}{x^2 + \dfrac{1}{x}}}$

5. Solve the equations

$$\frac{x}{a} + \frac{z}{b} = a + b$$
$$x + 2y + z = (a+b)^2$$
$$ax + 3(a+b)y + bz = (a+b)^3$$

6. A number written as 765 in a certain scale of notation, would be written as 616 if the radix of the scale were increased by unity: how should it be written in the ordinary decimal scale?

7. If two circles touch one another, show that the straight line joining their centres passes through the point of contact.

If two circles meet at a point which is not on the straight line passing through their centres, show how to find a second point in which they meet.

8. Show how to inscribe in a circle a regular pentagon, and also a regular decagon.

9. If O A, O B be any two radii of a circle, prove that the lines bisecting the interior angle at A and the exterior angle at B of the triangle O A B meet on the circumference of the circle.

A. Find the quotients if $x^4 - 2(a^2 + b^2)x^2 + (a^2 - b^2)^2$ is divided first by $x - (a - b)$, secondly by $x^2 - (a - b)^2$. What is the value of $x^4 - 2(a^2 + b^2)x^2 + (a^2 - b^2)^2$ when $x = a + b$ and when $x = a - b$?

B. The price of a certain commodity rises x per cent., and in consequence the quantity that can be purchased for a given sum decreases y per cent.: prove that

$$\frac{1}{y} - \frac{1}{x} = \frac{1}{100}$$

C. Write down the axiom about parallel straight lines. For the proof of what theorem is this axiom necessary? Write out enough of the proof of the theorem you mention to show where the axiom comes in.

The following is the kind of paper set for the Science Scholarships—viz. the Arnott and Clift Scholarships:—

PHYSICS.

June 1887.

Examiner—F. WOMACK, M.B., B.Sc. Lond.

Time allowed—three hours.

1. Describe some form of maximum and minimum thermometer. What are the errors to which an ordinary mercurial thermometer is liable, and how would you proceed to detect them?

2. Define the terms coefficient of expansion, thermal capacity, latent heat, radiating power. What would you understand by the term 'coefficient of expansion' as applied to an irregularly expanding substance, such for example as water, which gives the following:—

vol. at 4° C. = 1 c. foot
,, 14° = 1·000706 c. feet
,, 24° = 1·002644

Show how such results can be expressed diagrammatically.

3. To what use is the wet and dry bulb thermometer put? Explain the behaviour of the instrument if it were carried from the external atmosphere into a much warmer room. How is the instrument used in quantitative determinations?

4. What is the meaning of the term 'temperature of maximum density of water'? How could you proceed to determine it with some approach to accuracy?

5. 60 grammes of iron (sp. heat = ·113) at temperature of 10° C. are dropped into 120 grammes of water at temperature of 50° C. The calorimeter is of copper, and has a mass of 150 grammes (sp. heat = ·095). Supposing no heat lost to the surrounding air, what would be the final temperature assumed by the water and iron?

6. The velocity of sound in air (supposing the sound wave of the same temperature throughout) would be 27996 cm. per sec., while it is actually found to be 33200 cm. per sec. Find from these figures the ratio of the sp. heat at constant pressure to the specific heat at constant volume of air. Explain why there is a difference between these two specific heats.

7. Describe some experiment which would show that the absorptive power and emissive power of any surface are equal. Also that for two different surfaces the ratio of their emissive powers is equal to the ratio of their absorptive powers.

8. Calculate the weight of a litre of air saturated with water vapour, the temperature being 10° C. and pressure 750 mm., given density of hydrogen at 0° C. and 760 mm. } = ·0000896 grammes per c.c.

pressure of water vapour at 10° C. } = 9·17 mm.

sp. gr. of dry air (relative to hydrogen) = 14·45

,, water vapour ,, = 9·

under same conditions of pressure and temperature.

N.B.—For further particulars and books see p. 78.

CLASS EXAMINATION PAPERS.

The following examination papers give very little idea of the work done in the College, as so very many of the classes are not examined officially by the professors, for various reasons. Many of the students at the time of the College Examinations are either actually being examined at the University of London, or are preparing for some public examination, that it is thought desirable not to enforce attendance at the College examinations, and in consequence the following classes are not examined at all at the end of the session: Botany; Chemistry; Geography and Geology; 3rd, 4th, 5th, and 6th Mathematics; also Applied Mathematics and Physics.

ARITHMETIC. CLASS II.

July 1887.

Examiner.—E. HARVEY.

1. Simplify $\frac{\frac{3}{7}+\frac{5}{18}+\frac{11}{14}}{2\frac{1}{2}+\frac{3}{15}-\frac{8}{9}} \times \frac{3\frac{2}{47}\times 1\frac{5}{9}}{2\frac{2}{9}\times 1\frac{3}{5}}$.

2. Find the cost of 7,842 things, at 15*l.* 6*s.* 9*d.* each.

3. Find the square root of 579121.

4. Given the length of the two sides of a right-angled triangle 21 feet and 28 feet respectively, find the length of the hypotenuse.

5. Find to 6 decimal places $\surd 7$.

6. Find the simple interest on 765*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* for $4\frac{1}{2}$ years at 4 per cent.

7. At what rate will the interest on 76*l.* 10*s.* amount to 15*l.* 6*s.* in 5 years?

8. Find the discount on a bill of 746*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* drawn June 18 for 4 months and discounted August 9 at 4 per cent., allowing 3 days' grace.

9. How many men working at 6*d.* per hour for 10 hours on each of 24 days can earn the same wages as 52 men who work 8 hours a day on each of 15 days for 6½*d.* an hour?

10. 1,675 candidates present themselves for a certain examination; 32 per cent. fail; how many pass?

11. From ·78225*l.* take ·475 of 6*s.*, and multiply the result by 6·025.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

July 1887.

Examiner.—PROFESSOR HALES.

Time allowed—two hours.

1. Explain the words—hyphen, epoch, metaphor, analysis, inflection, homogeneous, strong and weak as applied to verbs, dialect, noun.

2. What do you know of the word its?

3. Give instances of the revival of words.

4. Show how 'one word becomes two.'

5. Give some account of the rise of these words: selfish, plunder, umbrella, international, omnibus, isolated, gull (=a foolish person), philistine, edify, panic.

6. Mention some words in ess and ster that are now obsolete, and also in ship and hood.

7. What do you know of the origin of the strong conjugation? Mention some twenty verbs once strong that are now weak.

8. Mention some twenty adjectives that are used as substantives.

9. Show how often words have changed their meaning, and suggest some causes for such movement.

10. Illustrate the saying that 'all words in some sort are faded metaphor.'

11. Derive: gossip, treacle, exonerate, king, shrewd, alms, pity, villain, furlong, preposterous.

12. Mention any words in Milton, Shakspeare, and Tennyson that we have discussed this term.

13. Mention any words added to our vocabulary in the reign of Queen Victoria.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

July 1887.

Examiner.—Professor Hales.

1. Write a short life of Spenser, and give a list of his Works in chronological order as far as possible. What is the subject of the Tears of the Muses?

2. Connect the Faerie Queene with the age that produced it, in respect of both its form and its thought.

3. Who are Lucifera, Malvenu, Trevisan, Sansjoy, Cœlia? What other persons appear in Book I.? What incidental mention is made of the river Dee, Bath, Antiochus, Cleopatra, Pegasus?

4. Describe the genius of Spenser, with illustrative quotations or references.

5. Discuss the date of Twelfth Night. What other Elizabethan plays were written about the same time?

6. Make an outline of this Comedy. From what source did Shakspeare derive the leading plot?

7. What is the date of the earliest extant text of Twelfth Night? Mention any lines of which the reading is obscure, and of which emendations have been suggested.

8. Describe carefully and discuss the character of Malvolio.

9. Assign to their context, and explain these passages:—

(a) He told of saintes and popes, and evermore
He strowd an Ave-Mary after and before.

(b) By this the northerne wagoner had set
His sevenfold teme behind the stedfast starre
That was in ocean waves yet never wet,
But firme is fixt and sendeth light from farre
To all that in the wide deep wandring arre.

(c) Entire affection hateth nicer hands.

(d) The sonnes of day he favoureth, I see,
And by my ruines thinkes to make them great;
To make one great by others losse is bad excheat.

(e) And he that harrowd hell with heavie stowre
The faulty soules from thence brought to his heavenly bowre.

(f) Be clamorous, and leap all civil bounds
Rather than make unprofited return.

(g) Many a good hanging prevents a bad marriage; and for turning away, let summer bear it out.

(h) But though I could not with such estimable wonder overfar believe that, yet thus far I will boldly publish her.

(i) For as the old hermit of Prague that never saw pen and ink very wittily said to a niece of King Gorboduc, 'That that is is,' so I, being master Parson am master Parson.

(j) Why should I not, had I the heart to do it,
Like to the Egyptian thief at point of death,
Kill what I love?—a savage jealousy
That sometimes savours nobly.

10. Explain these words and phrases: chaungelings—a francklin faire and free—embost with bale—mighty brawned bowrs—every coast that heaven walks about—the most notorious geck and gull—a passy measures pavin—the old Vice. . .with dagger of lath—empty trunks o'erflourished by the devil—more matter for a May morning.

ANGLO-SAXON.

July 1887.

Examiner.—PROFESSOR HALES.

1. When is the weak form of an adjective used? What words always keep the strong form?

2. Write down a specimen of each of the ablant conjugations? What other conjugation of strong verbs is there?

3. Make a list of the most common noun and adjective formatives, with examples.

4. How is the passive voice expressed in Anglo-Saxon? How the pluperfect tense?

5. Give some account of Anglo-Saxon versification.

6. What is known of Abbot Ælfric's life? With whom has he been confounded? What works of his can you mention?

7. Explain: týn engla werod—tó ðisum middangearde —týn mædena... þá man het Sibillas—Plato—se úðwita and se wisosta mann on hæðenum folce hæfde hine gesprecew.

8. Translate into modern English, with any notes that seem to you required—

(a) Đá þuhte him tó huxlic þæt hé híran Sceolde énigum hláforde, þá hé swá énlic wæs, and nolde wurðian þone þe hine geworhte and him þancian éfre ðæs þe hé him forgeaf and béon him underðeodd þæs ðe swíþw geornlice for þære micclon mæðe þe hé hine gemæðegode.

9. What were the circumstances of the battle of Maldon? What East-Anglian warriors are specially mentioned? By whom were Northumbria and Mercia represented?

10. Shew how the Maldon poem illustrates tenth-century life in England.

11. Translate, with grammatical notes:—

(a) Ne þurfe wé ús Spillan, gif gé spédaþ tó þám;
We willað wiþ þám golde grið fæsnian.

(b) þá hí þæt ongéaton and georne gesáwon

FRENCH. CLASS II.

July 1887.

Examiner.—J. A. ESCLANGON.

Two hours allowed.

TRADUISEZ EN FRANÇAIS.

Socrates and his Pupil.

I. A young man, who was a great talker, was sent by his parents to Socrates to learn oratory. On being presented to Socrates, the lad spoke so much that Socrates was out of patience. When the bargain came to be struck, Socrates asked him double the price. 'Why charge me double?' said the young fellow. 'Because,' said the orator, 'I must teach you two sciences—the one to hold your tongue, and the other how to speak.'

II. Translate into English.

L'Ane.

L'âne n'est point un cheval dégénéré ; il a comme tous les autres animaux, sa famille, son espèce, son rang ; son sang est pur, et quoique sa noblesse soit moins illustre elle est tout aussi bonne, tout aussi ancienne que celle du cheval. Pourquoi donc tant de mépris pour cet animal si bon, si patient, si sobre, si utile ? On donne au cheval de l'éducation ; on le soigne, on l'instruit, on l'exerce ; tandis que l'âne abandonné à la grossièreté du dernier des valets ou à la malice des enfants, bien loin d'acquérir ne peut que perdre par son éducation, et s'il n'avait pas un grand fonds d'excellentes qualités, il les perdrait par la manière dont on le traite.

III. Grammaire.

1. Quelles sont les remarques que vous avez à faire pour l'orthographe des verbes terminés à l'infinitif par : ger, cer, eler, eter ?

2. Qu'avez-vous à remarquer pour les verbes : haïr et fleurir ?

3. Conjuguez au prés. de l'ind. et au futur les verbes : se repentir, s'arroger.

4. Conjuguez dans tous les temps les verbes impersonnels : il importe, il convient.

5. Quels sont les temps primitifs des verbes suivants : aller, sentir, couvrir, tenir, voir, savoir, prévoir, pouvoir, pourvoir, vouloir, craindre, faire ?

6. Quels sont les substantifs qui sont masc. au sing. et fém. au plur. ?

7. Donnez très brièvement les règles d'accord des substantifs composés et des adjectifs. Donnez des exemples.

8. Quels sont les adjectifs numéraux qui prennent la marque du pluriel ? Donnez des exemples.

I. TRADUISEZ EN FRANÇAIS.

The Utility of History.

The Roman history furnishes more examples of virtue and magnanimity, or greatness of mind, than any other. It was a common thing to see their consuls and dictators taken from the plough to lead their armies against their enemies, and, after victory, returning to their plough again, and passing the rest of their lives in modest retirement.

Many of their greatest men died so poor that they were buried at the expense of the public.

Curius, who had no money of his own, refused a great sum that the Samnites offered him, saying that he saw no glory in having money himself, but in commanding those that had.

II. TRANSLATE INTO ENGLISH.

Edgar Quinet.

Il faut considérer Edgar Quinet sous son triple aspect d'homme politique, d'historien-philosophe et de poète.

Homme politique, il a épuisé en son amour de la patrie française l'amour de toutes les parties du monde, il a défendu la cause de toutes les nations opprimées de l'époque contemporaine, il a mieux posé que nul autre la question des nationalités.

Historien-philosophe, parcourant l'histoire entière, il a affirmé l'unité du genre humain dès son point de départ et indiqué le but de son voyage à travers les siècles, le renouvellement fraternel de l'unité primitive. Poète, à son inspiration propre ajoutant l'inspiration universelle, il semble avoir voulu faire de la littérature française la syntèse de toutes les littératures anciennes et modernes ; il a cherché à nous rendre le poème épique perdu depuis le moyen âge. Homme politique, historien-philosophe, poète, Edgar Quinet a toujours bravement accepté la responsabilité de ses idées.

III. Faites des familles de mots avec : Considérer, politique, homme, idée, nation, humain, moderne, poète, ancien, voyage. Indiquez aussi les idiomes que pourraient vous suggérer ces mots.

IV. Indiquez très-brièvement le sujet des pièces suivantes :

Mademoiselle de la Seiglière ; Louis XI.

V. Composition sur un des sujets suivants :

Bonheur d'être utile à ses semblables.
Charmes d'un séjour à la campagne.
Utilité des langues modernes.
Description d'un voyage.

GERMAN. CLASS I.

July 1887.

Examiner.—HERR WEISS.

No books to be used. Two hours allowed.

1. TRANSLATE INTO ENGLISH.

(a) Als Sheridan in einem Landhause zum Besuch war, hatte eine ältliche, unverheiratete Dame ihren Kopf darauf gesetzt, ihn auf einem Spaziergange zu begleiten. Anfangs entschuldigte er sich mit dem schlechten Wetter; aber kurz darauf ertappte ihn die Dame beim Versuche, ohne sie zu entwischen. 'Es hat sich aufgeklärt, wie ich sehe,' sagte sie. 'Ja,' antwortete er, 'es hat sich genug für einen aufgeklärt, aber noch nicht genug für zwei.'

(b) 'Du Bächlein,[1] silber hell[2] und klar,
Du eilst vorüber[3] immerdar;
Am Ufer steh' ich, sinn[4] und sinn.
Wo kommst du her? Wo gehst du hin?'
'Ich komm' aus dunkler Felsen-Schooss,[5]
Mein Lauf geht über Blum' und Moos;
Auf meinem Spiegel schwebt[6] so mild
Des blauen Himmels freundlich Bild.
Drum hab' ich frohen Kindersinn;[7]
Es treibt mich fort weiss nicht wohin.
Der mich gerufen aus dem Stein
Der denk ich wird mein Führer sein.'—Goethe.

2. Translate into German.

I have asked him, Where does he live? He lives in the new house near the city wall. What have you bought? I shall buy a watch. The children cried; we heard them. These streets are longer than those. These gardens are not so beautiful as those of our aunt. Would you buy an estate if you had money? The books which I have found lie on the table. The lady whose book you have found is my sister. I should drink a glass of water if I were thirsty. He has poured water into the glass.

3. Grammatical Questions.

1. Decline in both numbers the personal pronouns.

2. Give the genitive singular and the nominative plural of 'Wand,' 'Mensch,' 'Frau,' 'Soldat.'

3. Conjugate in the present and imperfect of the indicative and subjunctive the verbs 'finden,' 'dürfen,' 'fragen.'

4. State the cases governed respectively by the prepositions 'von,' 'an,' 'anstatt,' 'auf,' 'nach,' 'für.'

5. Give the ordinal numbers from one to twenty.

6. Give the comparative and superlative of 'gut,' 'viel,' 'hoch.'

7. Decline in both numbers the German for 'these disagreeable vacations.'

Examiner.—PROFESSOR E. S. BEESLY.

TRANSLATE INTO LATIN.

Men say that truth is in danger only too often, but that it is never extinguished.

Veritas laboro nimis saepe aio extinguo nunquam.

He cries out that the enemy's camp is taken, and orders it to be announced everywhere.

Exclamo capio hostis castra, nuntioque passim jubeo.

I quite agree with you that the deeds of the tyrant will be ratified much more firmly.

Valde tu assentior multo firme actum tyrannus comprobo.

You write that they would have attained this same end by the help of others.

Scribo ille hic idem per alius assequor.

This, however, will be manifest, that their words are contrary to their deeds.

Tamen ille apparet, verbum res sum contrarius.

What answer shall I make to my children? That I was not able to secure the safety of Milo?

Quis respondeo liberi meus? Ego non possum Milo salus tueor?

They did not separate even at night, and they threatened that they would break open the prison.

Ne nox quidem dilabor refringoque carcer minor.

Fortune had fostered by success this rashness natural to his character; and so it was tolerably clear that he would do everything with fierce and precipitate haste.

Hic insitus ingenium is temeritas fortuna prosperus successus alo; itaque satis apparet ferociter omnis ac præpropere ago.

To be free from covetousness is money.

Non sum cupidus pecunia sum.

To think that you know this! to think that this shall be handed down to memory!

Hic tu scio, hic memoria trado?

MATHEMATICS. CLASS I.

July 1887.

Examiner—A. E. LEE.

ALGEBRA.

1. Multiply $ax^2 + 3cx + b$ by $dx^2 + 2cx$.
Divide $maz^3 + (mb - na)z^2 - (mc + nb)z + nc$ by $mz - n$.

2. Find the factors of
(a) $3x^2 + x - 2$, (b) $x^2 + 2ax + a^2$, (c) $x^2 - p^2$,
(d) $x^3 - y^3$, (e) $x^4 + y^4$.

3. Find the G.C.M. of $3x^2 + x - 2$ and $3x^2 + 4x - 4$, and L.C.M. of $4(a^2 - a)$ and $6(a^2 + a)$.

4. Solve (a) $\frac{x}{a}+\frac{x}{b}=c$

5. The value of fifty coins, consisting of half-guineas and half-crowns, is 16*l.* 5*s.*; how many are there of each?

6. Simplify $\frac{x^3+y^3}{x^2-y^2}\times\frac{x-y}{x^2-xy+y^2}$

ALGEBRA. CLASS II.

July 1887.

Examiner.—A. E. LEE.

1. Simplify—

$$\frac{x^4-b^4}{x^2-2bx+6^3}\div\frac{x^2+bx}{x-b}\times\frac{x^5-b^2x^3}{x^3+b^3}\div\frac{x^4-2bx^3+b^2x^2}{x^3-bx+6^2}$$

2. Find the sum of n terms of a geometrical progression.

The harmonical mean between two numbers $=\frac{16}{25}$ of the Arithmetic mean, and one of the numbers is 4; find the other number.

3. The sum of the two digits of a number equals six times their difference, the number itself exceeds six times their sum by 3; find the number.

4. Solve the following equations:

(a) $\left.\begin{aligned}\frac{x}{a}+\frac{y}{b}&=1-\frac{x}{c}\\\frac{y}{a}+\frac{x}{b}&=1+\frac{y}{c}\end{aligned}\right\}$.

(b) $\frac{1}{2}x^2=14-3x^2$.

GEOMETRY. CLASS I.

July 1887.

Examiner.—A. E. LEE.

1. Prove that the line which bisects the vertical angle of an isosceles triangle also bisects the base at right angles.

2. Prove that the square on the hypothenuse of a right-angled triangle is equal to the squares on the other two sides. Hence describe a square=3 times a given square.

3. If two triangles have two sides and an included angle equal, shew that they are equal in all respects.

4. Prove that the 3 median lines of a triangle meet at a point one third up either. By means of this shew how to trisect a given straight line.

5. Prove that the diagonals of a parallelogram bisect one another.

GEOMETRY. CLASS II.

July 1887.

Examiner.—A. E. LEE.

1. Prove that the perpendicular bisectors of the sides of a triangle meet at a point.

2. Divide a straight line into two parts, so that the rectangle contained by the whole and one part shall be equal to the square on the other part.

3. Describe a circle to pass through three given points.

4. Draw common tangents to two given circles.

5. Describe a regular figure of 48 sides in a given circle.

6. Prove that the three angles of a triangle are together equal to two right angles.

7. Shew by any method how to trisect a straight line.

ANIMAL BIOLOGY.

July 1887.

Examiner.—DR. BENHAM.

Not more than six questions must be attempted, including at least one of the first two questions.

Illustrate by diagrams where necessary.

1. What groups of muscles are used in respiration, and what is their nerve supply? About what quantity of air is inspired and expired in proportion to the total capacity of the lungs, in an ordinary respiratory act?

2. What are the various digestive fluids poured on to the food during its passage along the alimentary canal? Mention the glands which secrete these fluids; the ferment characteristic of each, and its action on the food.

3. What is the structure and mode of formation of the eye in Helix, Astacus, and Rana?

4. Describe briefly and compare the transverse sections taken through the body of (a) Hydra, and (b) Lumbricus.

5. Describe the chief varieties of connective tissue found in the Rabbit.

6. Give the complete life-history of the Fluke.

7. Compare the 'body-cavity' of Lumbricus with that of Astacus. With which of these is the 'pericardium' of Helix homologous?

8. What are the differences between the Rabbit and Pigeon in respect of the heart and vascular system?

Mention the characters which distinguish the Monocondyla from the Amphicondyla, as seen in the types studied.

Alphabetical Index of Students.

THE date following each name is that of the first term of the session during which the student entered—each session consisting of Michaelmas Term in one year and Lent and Easter Terms in the following year. Thus, any student entering in one of the three terms of the session extending from Michaelmas 1849 to July 1850, has only the first date placed after the name, and will be found in the sessional lists under the heading 1849–50.
